Eisenhower Invades New England Today

Scientist Begins "Foodless" Drift Across Atlantic

LAS PALMAS, Canary Island, Oct. 19 (AP)—A 27-year-old French scientist left here today on a frail raft in an attempt to reach the West Indies living entirely on what he can pull out of the sea.

Dr. Alain Bombard is trying to prove that a diet of raw fish, plankton, a small organism in the sea, and purified sea water is sufficient to maintain life for the 50 days he believes necessary for the Atlantic crossing.

He is, however, carrying a package of provisions, sealed by a notary just before departure, to be used only in the case of an emergency.

Bombard drifted here aboard the tiny raft from Casablanca, Morocco.

Pentagon Rapped For Construction Fund "Secrecy"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—A House appropriations subcommittee today accused military officials of being "less than candid" in outlining their world-wide construction programs to Congress. It urged them to supply fuller information the next time they seek funds.

The subcommittee also told the Pentagon, in a report to the House, to take more steps toward economies in its multi-billion dollar public works program.

$72,000,000 Saving Noted

The services have saved at least 72 million dollars by pushing reforms which the committee urged, the report said, but "a satisfactory situation still does not exist."

The committee said it was told officers have been disciplined in "only a few isolated instances" for a "disregard for careful use of public funds." It called for a full report, before considering new appropriations next year, on all officers punished since the start of the Korean War for failure to enforce economy.

The report summarized a survey of 73 military installations in 21 states made by the subcommittee, which is headed by Rep. Riley (D-SC). Much of the information was made public during the last session.

"Foot-In-Door Technique"

"The armed services officials," the report said, "have sometimes been less than candid and have failed to make complete disclosure of over-all construction needs and programs to the committee. The foot-in-the-door technique has been used to get initial appropriations which later had to be supplemented in order to obtain full utilization of facilities. The committee feels it is entitled to complete candor."

This subcommittee is the first congressional group each year to review military requests for funds to carry on world-wide military construction.

Freight Engine Blast Kills Four

LITTLETON, Colo., Oct. 19 (AP)—Three railroad trainmen and an amateur photographer were killed today in the explosion of a locomotive pulling a Denver and Rio Grande Western freight train six miles south of here.

Rio Grande officials said the cause of the explosion was not immediately known.

The trainmen were identified by railroad officials as Engineer R. R. Malloy, Fireman J. L. Taylor and Head Brakeman S. T. Messeraull, all of Denver.

David K. Clint, also of Denver, was identified as the fourth man killed. The railroad said he was a railroad club photographer who had been permitted to ride on the engine.

Greek Liberals Desert

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 19 (AP)—Twenty-four prominent Liberals, including former Premier Emmanouel Tsouderos, deserted the Liberal Party today and joined forces with the dominant Greek Rally Party for November's parliamentary election.

Gen. Holbrook Dies

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Major Gen. L. R. Holbrook, who originated the Army's school for cooks and bakers and who commanded the first U. S. field artillery regiment to enter France during World War I, died today.

Stevenson Starts Two-Week Windup Tour Tomorrow

(By The Associated Press)

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sets out today along somewhat the same New England campaign trail on which President Truman last week lambasted the general's Republican campaign for the presidency.

And tomorrow Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, Eisenhower's Democratic rival, embarks on his most intensive whistlestop trip, which will take him into 12 states before the election just two weeks from tomorrow.

Both the candidates rested yesterday—Eisenhower at New York City and Stevenson at Springfield, Ill.

And Truman was back in Washington, briefly, between campaign swings on behalf of Stevenson, the man he wants to succeed him in the White House. He leaves tomorrow for a three-day trip into New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland and then will set out again next weekend for the Midwest.

He Follows Truman Route

Eisenhower's schedule today, calling for 10 speeches in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, follows closely the route taken by Truman last week. The general will campaign in New England and New York until Friday, when he moves on to Detroit.

Stevenson's two-week windup tour will carry him through midwestern and eastern states with 208 electoral votes and will end with an election eve address in Chicago.

He returned to the Illinois capital late Saturday night after a campaign against party rebels in Texas and, when asked how he feels about his chances, replied with a grin: "Our Republican friends still have an outside chance for Maine and Vermont."

Rabbi Defends Eisenhower

In New England, Eisenhower will have an opportunity to reply to many of the attacks leveled at him by Truman on the same ground. Some aides thought he might reply to Truman's statement of last Friday imputing to Eisenhower the condoning of anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic immigration policies.

In a speech read for him in Washington, the President said of Eisenhower: "He is willing to accept the very practices that identify the so-called 'master race'."

Richard M. Nixon called on Stevenson from "immediately dissociate himself" from what he called President Truman's "vicious attack" on Eisenhower.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate should do this, Nixon said "if he really believes in racial tolerance (and) civil rights."

Rabbi Says He's Shocked

Nixon accused Truman of "engaging in the lowest type of gutter politics" for suggesting that Eisenhower, the Republican standard bearer, "was a protagonist of the master race theory."

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland, American Zionist leader, said he was shocked by what he termed the President's irresponsible statement. He said Eisenhower's "humanity and broad tolerance are known all over the world."

Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D-NY) replied in a New York statement last night that the rabbi's criticism was "in bad taste and an affront to Zionists like myself."

Kremlin Is Reported Erasing Cominform

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Moscow is quietly liquidating the Cominform, the Yugoslav Communist (anti-Kremlin) organ Borba said today.

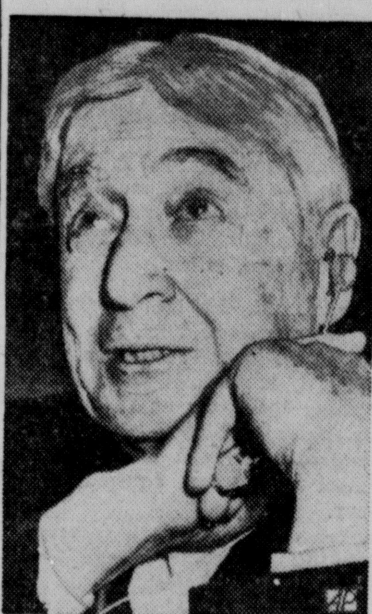

A Belgrade radio report added, however, that "Moscow has not renounced the aims for which the Cominform was designed, but is only changing the form of its aggressive design."

111 Pounds Of Opium Seized In Raid On British Tanker

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 (AP)—U. S. customs agents seized 111 pounds of opium—valued at more than one million dollars on the narcotics black market—in a raid aboard a British oil tanker when the vessel docked here today.

Michael J. Bradley, collector of the Port of Philadelphia, said that the seizure was the largest ever made in this port. Several members of the crew of the tanker, the Silverdale, were held for questioning, Bradley said.

Customs agents swarmed on the ship when it arrived here from the Persian Gulf with a cargo of crude oil—acting in response to a radio

BOOSTS IKE—Bernard Baruch (above), adviser to presidents of both major parties since Woodrow Wilson's administration, has written a letter of high praise to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, it was disclosed last night. Baruch is a Democrat.

Elder Statesman Baruch Praises Gen. Eisenhower

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch, who has been critical of the Truman administration for almost four years, has written a letter of high praise to Dwight D. Eisenhower, it was disclosed today.

The 82-year-old financier's letter was made public by the Republican presidential candidate's national headquarters.

The letter expressed admiration of Eisenhower for the "high purposes that have motivated you in all circumstances."

Baruch Is Democrat

Baruch, a Democrat who has been an adviser to presidents of both major parties since Woodrow Wilson's administration, was asked by newsmen whether the letter meant he was endorsing Eisenhower.

He called their attention to the fact that he had signed the letter, dated Aug. 7, "affectionately," and added:

"I might have something to say later."

The coolness between Truman and Baruch began during the 1948 campaign shortly after Baruch turned down a presidential request that he serve on the Democratic Finance Committee.

White House Visits Ceased

It was reported at the time that Truman wrote Baruch a sharp letter to the effect that politics was not a one-way street.

The exact text of Truman's letter was given in the recent book, "Mr. President," and was somewhat tamer than the rumored wording.

"A great many honors have passed your way, both to you and your family," Truman wrote, "and it seems to me when the going is rough it is a one-way street. I am sorry that this is so."

While Baruch expressed gratification at the election of Truman in 1948, their previously close relationship became cool. Baruch's visits to the White House ceased.

Shinwell Calls For Cut In British Draft Term

MARGATE, Eng., Oct. 19 (AP)—Former Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell today urged that the term of service for British Army draftees be immediately cut by six months and by 12 months next year. The present term of service is two years.

The Socialist leader also suggested that eventually draftees be required to serve only "very short periods"—and then only if conscription is still found to be necessary.

Britain is the only one of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries which has 24-month conscription.

message from the vessel's skipper, Capt. D. B. Edgar.

Bradley said that Capt. Edgar had located a large quantity of opium on the ship and that he suspected some members of the crew had been using the drug.

The port collector said Capt. Edgar put 50 pounds of opium he had found in the ship's safe during the last leg of the Silverdale's journey across the Atlantic. Sixty-one additional pounds were uncovered in the search of the ship by customs agents here. It was cached away in "every conceivable hiding place," Bradley said, even in some fire extinguishers which had been emptied of their original contents.

Full-Scale Coal Strike Looms

Miners Angered By WSB Decision To Cut Pay Boost

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19 (AP)—The nation tonight faced the possibility of a walkout of 375,000 soft coal miners who are angered because the Wage Stabilization Board sliced a $1.90 a day pay raise to $1.50.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has kept his lips tightly closed since the WSB handed down its ruling yesterday.

Lewis, in an address at Charleston, W. Va., heartily endorsed Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee for President, but said nothing whatever about the coal situation.

Already restless because the promised raise did not show up in their pay checks, UMW members began walking out of the pits last week.

About 150,000 of them were idle in the soft coal fields Friday, said full day of their work week.

There apparently will be no definite sign before morning whether there will be a full-fledged strike or whether the miners will work pending an appeal from the WSB finding.

In scores of communities in the nation's 20-odd coal mining states, UMW locals met to study the WSB ruling and act on it.

In Fayette County—heart of the bituminous coal region in Western Pennsylvania—the Robena mine, world's largest mechanized soft coal pit, voted against returning to work.

John P. Busarello, president of UMW Dist. 5, which embraces three counties around Pittsburgh, said that on the basis of calls he had received from local leaders, he doubted whether the 30,000 miners in his district would work tomorrow.

On the other hand, Frank Hughes, president of Dist. 3 in Central Pennsylvania, declared:

"The 7,000 or 8,000 men in my district are not on strike. No strike has been called. I do not believe they will strike. I expect them to continue work."

Modification Of WSB Decision Is Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Defense Mobilization Henry H. Fowler today virtually ruled out any modification of the decision by the Wage Stabilization Board to slash a pay raise for 350,000 soft coal miners.

The WSB ruling disallowed 40 cents of the $1.90 wage hike John L. Lewis negotiated with the soft coal industry late last month. The wage boost cutback, which came as a surprise to the industry and the United Mine Workers, is almost certain to bring a full scale strike in 80 per cent of the nation's soft coal mines. The other one-fifth was not involved in the Lewis contract.

Fowler told a reporter that from what he knows of the coal wage case, any higher pay boost than that allowed by the WSB would be "inconsistent" with the stabilization program.

11 Killed In Riots In South Africa

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Oct. 19 (AP)—New Brighton, a township of Port Elizabeth, was quiet today after a night of murder, robbery and arson during which 11 people were killed and at least 27 injured.

Not only was the Rio Cinema—the biggest non-white motion picture house in the union—set on fire by the mob and burned out, but so was the post office which forms part of the administration block, five shops and stores and many motor vehicles. Extensive damage was done to the railway station and other municipal and government property.

The trouble is said to have nothing to do with the widespread native campaign of defiance of the Union of South Africa's racial laws, but is reported to have started when railway policemen tried to arrest two Negroes wanted on charges of theft.

Pilots Die As Sabres Collide At Air Show

WESTFIELD, Mass., Oct. 19 (AP)—Two Air Force F-86 Sabre jet fighter planes collided in the air today, killing both pilots, before 10,000 horrified spectators at dedication exercises of a new administration building at Barnes airport—a Massachusetts National Guard layout.

The two planes, based at nearby Westover Field in Chicopee, came down in a wooded area about two miles from the crowd at Barnes Field.

Triangle Hill Wounded Evacuated

After receiving first aid in the Triangle Hill battle area in Korea, a wounded GI is carried by litter bearers to a well-loaded truck. The casualties are taken to hospitals in the rear sections.

Friends Deplore Attack On Adlai In Hiss Episode

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 19 (AP)—A group of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's friends today deplored "unjust attacks" on him in the Alger Hiss case and said "similar unfair and sinister interpretations could be placed with better cause upon Gen. Eisenhower's connection with Hiss."

The view was expressed in a prepared statement put out by supporters of the Democratic nominee, the Volunteers for Stevenson.

"Criticism in neither case is warranted," the statement said. "But if there is to be criticism, Gen. Eisenhower is more vulnerable than Gov. Stevenson."

Hiss, a former State Department official, is serving a jail sentence after conviction on charges that he lied about a leak of government secrets.

At the first Hiss trial, Stevenson submitted a deposition attesting to Hiss' reputation.

Today's statement said: "Gov. Stevenson did not vouch for Alger Hiss, he simply reported Hiss' reputation as he heard it 'from the speech' of others."

"Gen. Eisenhower, however, became a member of the board of trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in 1948 while Hiss was president. He, too, must have believed that Hiss' reputation for integrity, loyalty and veracity was good, for surely he would not have joined the board of trustees if he believed the reputation of its president to be otherwise."

The statement did not accuse Eisenhower, himself, of having made any attack on Stevenson in connection with the Hiss episode, nor did it name anyone else.

Showdown With Mass Killing Suspect Near

CHESTER, Calif., Oct. 19 (AP)—Investigators questioned a score of persons and assembled all evidence today as the showdown neared with the man they have called the No. 1 suspect in the mass slaying of four near here.

Dist. Atty. Bertram Jones and Sheriff Mel Schaefer left tonight for Reno, Nev., where Louis Edmond Blair, Chester theater operator, will voluntarily undergo a lie detector test at 1 p. m. (PST) tomorrow.

Jones told a news conference today only Blair and one other suspect now are under arrest in connection with the brutal slaying of Chester Grocer Guard Young, his two small daughters, Judy, 6, and Jean, 7, and their playmate, Michael Saille, 4.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 19 (AP)—Col. Abdullah El Tell, exiled Arab Legionnaire who once was the leading soldier of the late King Abdullah, reported today an underground "liberal officers" group has been organized in Jordan along the lines of the Egyptian army group that overthrew King Farouk in Egypt.

GIs In Korea See Fiery 'Cartwheels'

TOKYO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Pacific Stars and Stripes reported today that U. S. troops saw a half dozen mysterious, spark-throwing "cartwheels" over the Western Korean Front Friday night.

"I don't believe they were flares," the service newspaper quoted one observer, Cpl. John A. Lajoie, Van Buren, Me. "What they did look like were those revolving cartwheels you see on the Fourth of July."

Wiley Calls Red Stand On Korea Peace 'Evil Lies'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), member of the U. S. delegation to the U. N., today called Soviet statements on a Polish-Russian plan to end the Korean War "an evil bag of lies."

The official reaction of the U. S. delegation was not voiced.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson left the U. N. Assembly hall shortly after Russia's Andrei Vishinsky seconded Poland's proposal Saturday for an immediate cease-fire in Korea on armistice terms the U. N. has long refused to accept. His aides said he was spending the weekend in Connecticut and would have no statement to make until Monday. The views of Australia and Czechoslovakia are among others scheduled to be given that day in the general policy debate.

Wiley, who spurned a new hunt for American Communists working in the U. N. just before he came here for the Assembly sessions, emphasized to a reporter that he was not speaking as a member of the delegation in denouncing Vishinsky and the Polish foreign minister.

"I am here in a dual role, as a senator and as a delegation member," Wiley said. "It is as a U. S. senator that I speak now."

"The statements of the representative of Poland and of Mr. Vishinsky are evil statements, made by blind men who do not sense their responsibility to the human race."

"There was never a greater bag of lies opened up in any assembly for world consumption than the evil statements made by these two."

H. Street Baldwin, Maryland Democratic Leader, Dies

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—H. Street Baldwin, former Maryland congressman and a tempestuous figure in Democratic politics for 24 years, died in a hospital here today.

Chairman of the Baltimore County Board of Commissioners at the time of his death, he had entered Union Memorial Hospital 10 days ago after suffering an attack at his home in nearby Hydes, Md.

A successful and wealthy farmer in the rich, rolling countryside just north of Baltimore, Baldwin had entered in politics in 1928. He made clear at that time he was aroused by attacks on Alfred E. Smith, then Democratic candidate for president.

Two years later he was elected to the General Assembly, where he

Bandits Stick Up Swank Party, Get $100,000 In Loot

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 19 (AP)—Police investigators today said they had only a few clues to work with after last night's brazen robbery by three masked bandits who fled with an estimated $100,000 in cash, jewelry and furs.

The bandit gang lined up about 60 party guests against the wall of a wealthy Nashville architect's home to rob them of wallets, rings, watches, furs and jewelry.

"Line Up," Guests Ordered

The house party in the home of Francis B. Warfield was part of the social activities after the Florida-Vanderbilt football game. Guests were among the most prominent personages in Nashville's social and business life.

The leader stepped into the living room and ordered the guests, "line up against the wall and put your hands up." He then put one foot on the piano stool and vaulted to the top of the piano.

When some guests failed to move toward the wall, the bandit kicked a china flower vase off the piano to gain attention.

While the leader leveled his gun at the guests, the other two rounded up the loot. The robbery was staged in about 20 minutes.

Guests Locked In Basement

Fred Lassiter, chief deputy for the county sheriff, today said, "from the statements of the guests, I would roughly estimate the loss at least $100,000."

The two gunmen warned the party guests "not to fool" with the man on the piano because "he is crazy—just out of the asylum."

The trio, masked with blue bandana handkerchiefs, locked their prisoners in the basement of the Warfield home before leaving. However the guests then went out onto the grounds through another basement door.

Goes To Bat For Adlai

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray called today on his United Steelworkers of American union to vote the straight Democratic ticket in the Nov. 4 election "so as to continue the social and economic advances of the last 16 years."

served until his election to the county board in 1934.

He began the first of two terms in Congress in 1942, stepping out four years later to try for the gubernatorial nomination. He ran a poor third to William Preston Lane Jr., who won, and J. Millard Tawes.

Rigidly conservative, he clashed repeatedly with other influential figures in the party, including Lane, Tawes, former Sen. Millard E. Tydings, Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore and George P. Mahoney, the current nominee for the U. S. Senate.

At the last Democratic national convention he led an attempt to swing the Maryland delegation to Sen. Richard Russell, seeking the presidential nomination with the support of the State's Rights offshoot of the party.

Heavy Fighting Rages As Reds Counterattack

Chinese Backed Up By Russian Rockets

SEOUL, Korea, Monday, Oct. 20 (AP)—U. S. and South Korean infantrymen lost Sniper Ridge and Pike's Peak to thousands of fiercely counterattacking Chinese Reds last night then won back the Central Front heights this morning in the heaviest fighting since the Allies seized the positions last week.

Two reinforced Red divisions of 3,000 to 3,500 men each grabbed the ridge and the peak in darkness last night.

U. S. Seventh Division troops stormed back to the top of Pike's Peak at 6:12 a. m. today. South Korea Second Division troops regained Sniper Ridge, two miles east of Pike's Peak, at 9:30 a. m.

ROKs Not Pushed Off Peak

Pike's Peak is a knob at the northern end of Triangle Hill, vital height won last week by the Seventh Division in vicious see-saw fighting. Front line officers said the Red counterattack never did reach the main part of Triangle Hill.

The Red assault on Sniper Ridge carried to the important crestline but failed to knock the South Koreans off the shoulders of the rocky ridge.

The Communists poured nearly 40,000 rounds of artillery, mortar and rocket fire on the Allied positions just before their big smash. The Reds struck just before midnight Sunday in their biggest counterattack on the two bitterly-won Allied positions—captured in five days of bloody fighting between Tuesday and Saturday.

Two reinforced Chinese regiments spearheaded the drive. A Chinese regiment normally numbers between 3,000 and 3,500 men.

Reds Use Russian Rockets

Sputtering Russian-made Katusha rockets blazed the way for the Reds. The rockets were fired 50 at a time toward U. N. positions. However, Allied officers said the rocket fire was not very accurate.

South Korean and American troops alike braced for the new assault during a comparative lull from Saturday morning to sunset Sunday. In that period the Reds contented themselves with pounding Triangle and Sniper Ridge with artillery and mortar fire. It was the first time since Tuesday that Communist ground forces did not attack.

Then, after dusk Sunday, the Reds began streaming out of the mountain fastness of towering Papa-San, a height just north of Triangle Hill which has served as the supply base and reinforcement center for the Reds throughout the six-day-old action.

Korea Stalemate Pact Is Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Homer Ferguson said today he has definite reports of an American-British agreement for a "stalemate" in Korea.

The Michigan Republican said he got his information from British sources in Canberra, Australia.

The subject came up as a group of teen-agers quizzed the senator on a wide range of subjects on the television program "Youth Wants To Know." One asked him to give his reasons for believing the Republicans, if victorious in the presidential campaign, can do better than the Democrats at finding a solution for the Korean War problem.

Ferguson replied that the GOP candidate, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is the man "who brought the war in Europe to a successful end and who sees the whole picture."

"I believe there is an agreement to have a stalemate in Korea—an agreement between Attlee and Truman."

"They do not want to move any farther north."

Leonard K. Nicholson, Noted Publisher, Dies

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Leonard K. Nicholson, who guided the Times Picayune Publishing Company to its position as one of the nation's leading newspaper organizations, died early today.

At the time of his death Nicholson was chairman of the board of the company which publishes the morning Times Picayune, the afternoon New Orleans States and the Sunday Times Picayune and New Orleans States.

Full-Scale Coal Strike Looms

Miners Angered By WSB Decision To Cut Pay Boost

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19 (AP)—The nation tonight faced the possibility of a walkout of 375,000 soft coal miners who are angered because the Wage Stabilization Board sliced a $1.90 a day pay raise to $1.50.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has kept his lips tightly closed since the WSB handed down its ruling yesterday.

Lewis, in an address at Charleston, W. Va., heartily endorsed Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee for President, but said nothing whatever about the coal situation.

Already restless because the promised raise did not show up in their pay checks, UMW members began walking out of the pits last week.

About 150,000 of them were idle in the soft coal fields Friday, last full day of their work week.

There apparently will be no definite sign before morning whether there will be a full-fledged strike or whether the miners will work pending an appeal from the WSB finding.

In scores of communities in the nation's 20-odd coal mining states, UMW locals met to study the WSB ruling and act on it.

In Fayette County—heart of the bituminous coal region in Western Pennsylvania—the Robena mine, world's largest mechanized soft coal pit, voted against returning to work.

John P. Busarello, president of UMW Dist. 5, which embraces three counties around Pittsburgh, said that on the basis of calls he had received from local leaders, he doubted whether the 30,000 miners in his district would work tomorrow.

On the other hand, Frank Hughes, president of Dist. 3 in Central Pennsylvania, declared:

"The 7,000 or 8,000 men in my district are not on strike. No strike has been called. I do not believe they will strike. I expect them to continue work."

Modification Of WSB Decision Is Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Defense Mobilization Henry H. Fowler today virtually ruled out any modification of the decision by the Wage Stabilization Board to slash a pay raise for 350,000 soft coal miners.

The WSB ruling disallowed 40 cents of the $1.90 wage hike John L. Lewis negotiated with the soft coal industry late last month. The wage boost cutback, which came as a surprise to the industry and the United Mine Workers, is almost certain to bring a full scale strike in 80 per cent of the nation's soft coal mines. The other one-fifth was not involved in the Lewis contract.

Fowler told a reporter that from what he knows of the coal wage case, any higher pay boost than that allowed by the WSB would be "inconsistent" with the stabilization program.

11 Killed In Riots In South Africa

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Oct. 19 (AP)—New Brighton, a township of Port Elizabeth, was quiet today after a night of murder, robbery and arson during which 11 people were killed and at least 27 injured.

Not only was the Rio Cinema—the biggest non-white motion picture house in the union—set on fire by the mob and burned out, but so was the post office which forms part of the administration block, five shops and stores and many motor vehicles. Extensive damage was done to the railway station and other municipal and government property.

The trouble is said to have nothing to do with the widespread native campaign of defiance of the Union of South Africa's racial laws, but is reported to have started when railway policemen tried to arrest two Negroes wanted on charges of theft.

Pilots Die As Sabres Collide At Air Show

WESTFIELD, Mass., Oct. 19 (AP)—Two Air Force P-86 Sabre jet fighter planes collided in the air today, killing both pilots, before 10,000 horrified spectators at dedication exercises of a new administration building at Barnes airport—a Massachusetts National Guard lay-out.

The two planes, based at nearby Westover Field in Chicopee, came down in a wooded area about two miles from the crowd at Barnes Field.

Friends Deplore Attack On Adlai In Hiss Episode

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 19 (AP)—A group of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's friends today deplored "unjust attacks" on him in the Alger Hiss case and said "similar unfair and sinister interpretations could be placed with better cause upon Gen. Eisenhower's connection with Hiss."

The view was expressed in a prepared statement put out by supporters of the Democratic nominee, the Volunteers for Stevenson.

"Criticism in neither case is warranted," the statement said. "But if there is to be criticism, Gen. Eisenhower is more vulnerable than Gov. Stevenson."

Hiss, a former State Department official, is serving a jail sentence after conviction on charges that he lied about a leak of government secrets.

At the first Hiss trial, Stevenson submitted a deposition attesting to Hiss' reputation.

Today's statement said: "Gov. Stevenson did not vouch for Alger Hiss, he simply reported Hiss' reputation as he heard it 'from the speech' of others."

"Gen. Eisenhower, however, became a member of the board of trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in 1948 while Hiss was president. He, too, must have believed that Hiss' reputation for integrity, loyalty and veracity was good, for surely he would not have joined the board of trustees if he believed the reputation of its president to be otherwise."

The statement did not accuse Eisenhower, himself, of having made any attack on Stevenson in connection with the Hiss episode, nor did it name anyone else.

Showdown With Mass Killing Suspect Near

CHESTER, Calif., Oct. 19 (AP)—Investigators questioned a score of persons and assembled all evidence today as the showdown neared with the man they have called the No. 1 suspect in the mass slaying of four near here.

Dist. Atty. Bertram Janes and Sheriff Mel Schaefer left tonight for Reno, Nev., where Louis Edmond Blair, Chester theater operator, will voluntarily undergo a lie detector test at 1 p. m. (PST) tomorrow.

Janes told a news conference today only Blair and one other suspect now are under arrest in connection with the brutal slaying of Chester Grocer Guard Young, his two small daughters, Judy, 6, and Jean, 7, and their playmate, Michael Sallie, 4.

Heavy Fighting Rages As Reds Counterattack

Chinese Backed Up By Russian Rockets

SEOUL, Korea, Monday, Oct. 20 (AP)—U. S. and South Korean infantrymen lost Sniper Ridge and Pike's Peak to thousands of fiercely counterattacking Chinese Reds last night when they won back the Central Front heights this morning in the heaviest fighting since the Allies seized the positions last week.

Two reinforced Red divisions of 3,000 to 3,500 men each grabbed the ridge and the peak in darkness last night.

U. S. Seventh Division troops stormed back to the top of Pike's Peak at 6:12 a. m. today. South Korea Second Division troops regained Sniper Ridge, two miles east of Pike's Peak, at 9:30 a. m.

ROKs Not Pushed Off Peak

Pike's Peak is a knob at the northern end of Triangle Hill, vital height won last week by the Seventh Division in vicious see-saw fighting. Front line officers said the Red counterattack never did reach the main part of Triangle Hill.

The Red assault on Sniper Ridge carried to the important crestline but failed to knock the South Koreans off the shoulders of the rocky ridge.

The Communists poured nearly 40,000 rounds of artillery, mortar and rocket fire on the Allied positions just before their big smash. The Reds struck just before midnight Sunday in their biggest counterattack on the two bitterly won Allied positions—captured in five days of bloody fighting between Tuesday and Saturday.

Two reinforced Chinese regiments spearheaded the drive. A Chinese regiment normally numbers between 2,000 and 3,500 men.

Reds Use Russian Rockets

Spitting Russian-made Katyusha rockets blazed the way for the Reds. The rockets were fired 50 at a time toward U. N. positions. However, Allied officers said the rocket fire was not very accurate.

South Korean and American troops alike braced for the new assault during a comparative lull from Saturday morning to sunset Sunday. In that period the Reds contented themselves with pounding Triangle and Sniper Ridge with artillery and mortar fire. It was the first time since Tuesday that Communist ground forces did not attack.

Then, after dusk Sunday, the Reds began streaming out of the mountain fastness of towering Papa-San, a height just north of Triangle Hill which has served as the supply base and reinforcement center for the Reds throughout the six-day-old action.

Korea Stalemate Pact Is Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Homer Ferguson said today he has definite reports of an American-British agreement for a "stalemate" in Korea.

The Michigan Republican said he got his information from British sources in Canberra, Australia.

The subject came up as a group of teen-agers quizzed the senator on a wide range of subjects on the television program "Youth Wants To Know." One asked him to give his reasons for believing the Republicans, if victorious in the presidential campaign, can do better than the Democrats at finding a solution for the Korean War problem.

Ferguson replied that the GOP candidate, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is "the man 'who brought the war in Europe to a successful end and who sees the whole picture.'"

"I believe there is an agreement to have a stalemate in Korea—an agreement between Attlee and Truman."

"They do not want to move any farther north."

At the time of his death Nicholson was chairman of the board of the company which publishes the morning Times Picayune, the afternoon New Orleans States and the Sunday Times Picayune and New Orleans States.

H. Streett Baldwin, Maryland Democratic Leader, Dies

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—H. Streett Baldwin, former Maryland congressman and a tempestuous figure in Democratic politics for 24 years, died in a hospital here today. He was 58.

Chairman of the Baltimore County Board of Commissioners at the time of his death, he had entered Union Memorial Hospital 10 days ago after suffering an attack at his home in nearby Hydes, Md.

A successful and wealthy farmer in the rich, rolling countryside just north of Baltimore, Baldwin had entered in politics in 1928. He made clear at that time he was aroused by attacks on Alfred E. Smith, then Democratic candidate for president.

Two years later he was elected to the General Assembly, where he

Former Local Man, Reporter For National Magazine Is First Civilian To Write Full Report On U. S. Navy's Snorkel-Type Subs

Allan C. Fisher, Jr. Gathers Material For Story By Living With Undersea Crewmen Under Simulated War Conditions

A new revolutionary era of under-sea craft, both for war and peace-time, is foreseen by many members of the submarine branch of the U. S. Navy with the advent of snorkel-equipped prowlers and the atomic sub now being built, writes Allan C. Fisher, Jr., staff member of National Geographic Society magazine and probably the first civilian ever to see first hand the entire phase of operation of our Navy's submarine program.

Fisher, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Fisher, Sr., of LaVale, and a graduate of Allegheny High School, Class of 1937, made an exhaustive and intensive personal survey of life in the submarine service which he recounts vividly in his article "Our Navy's Long Submarine Arm" in the November issue of the National Geographic Magazine.

A brother of Mrs. F. Allan Weatherholt, the former Betty Fisher, he received his AB degree at the University of Maryland in 1941, worked as a reporter on the Washington Post, Baltimore Sun, New York Bureau of Associated Press and was former public relations representative for Kaiser-Frazer Corporation in New York before joining the National Geographic Society staff May 27, 1950.

Fisher is married and the father of two children and he worked nine months in the News Bulletin Service of the magazine before being promoted to the magazine's writing and reporting staff.

With permission obtained from the Navy, Fisher boarded several of the newest snorkel-equipped submarines, took a trip around a test run of the snorkel type craft aboard the USS Sablefish; went beneath the surface of the sea in the Navy's diving chamber used in rescue operations by the USS Skylark; flew in a Navy helicopter stalking subs with underwater sound gear; and witnessed the training program from raw recruit to veteran seaman of the submarine fleet at New London, Conn., and Key West, Fla., and finally took part in a mock sea battle as a member of one of the newest-type subs.

Recounts Experiences

In his article Fisher recounts his experiences and gives an accurate description of the physiological effects of "snorkeling" and a graphic account of submarine mock battle and rescue chamber operations.

With the raucous blast of the horn which signalled the command to dive, Fisher and the crew aboard the USS Sablefish started their 20-minute submerged run beneath the waters off New London testing the snorkel "the ingenious breathing tube that enables today's deadly steel sharks to remain underwater for weeks at a time."

"A Dutch invention perfected by the Germans," Fisher explains in his story, the snorkel is "simple in principle, it consists of two pipe-like cylinders. One sucks in air from the surface while the other expels engine exhaust into the water."

Snorkeling creates serious physiological problems for the crewmen, Fisher went on, because the air-intake valve, when struck by water, closes automatically to prevent its flooding while Diesel engines aboard the sub keep gulping air like a vacuum pump until the valve reopens.

Air Pressure Varies.

This results in rapid variation of air pressure within the submarine and crewmen sometimes "experience an uncomfortable ear-popping, head-filling sensation" which they become accustomed to in time.

Fisher himself found out what a "headache" snorkeling could be.

An altimeter aboard the boat indicated the air pressure and the needle "seesawed back and forth like an erratic compass." The magazine writer found out later from Navy physicians that the sensation made it difficult for crew men to sleep as they were often awakened by pain or discomfort in ears and sinuses.

Fisher went on to note that fleet-type subs of World War II were destined to be soon obsolete with the newer, deadlier streamlined crafts which are capable of high submerged speeds, now joining the fleet.

"Although the snorkel boat is not a true submarine, that term may apply to the world's first atomic-powered sub, USS Nautilus," Fisher states because atom fuel does not require air for its reaction and the boat can stay submerged indefinitely.

Graduates Of New London

At New London's sprawling, 500-acre submarine base, the U. S. Submarine School and Medical Research Laboratory is located and every officer in the force and nearly all the enlisted men are graduates of this school.

"Officers take a six-months' course in such subjects as engineering, ordnance, tactics, communications and submarine construction and operation there," Fisher continues, while "enlisted men go through a rigorous eight-weeks' training period."

"Since the school was established in 1917 more than 5,000 officers and 50,000 enlisted men have taken the basic training."

Continuing his tour of the school, Fisher discovered one of the most unusual classrooms in the world, "a huge, silolike escape-training tank filled with 100 feet of water."

Here men are trained in the many techniques used to escape from a trapped submarine in deep water. Students are constantly warned of the dangers of air embolisms, resulting from rupture of the lungs which occur occasionally when the ascent from deep water is made incorrectly.

Chamber Is Used

Because individual escapes are not possible in great depths or in extremely cold waters, "the best method of rescuing trapped men is the Navy's ingenious submarine rescue chamber, an 11-ton diving bell" which was used to rescue 33 men from the Squallus, which sank off Portsmouth, N. H., in 1939.

Fisher boarded the tug Skylark to witness a simulated rescue operation at sea and was given permission to go aboard the diving bell as it was lowered into the ocean. He made the 70-foot descent with crewmen from the rescue ship and while submerged they found the hatch ajar, with water pouring in from the sea for a few tense seconds before the operator could reach the hatch and close it.

Using air pressure to blow water from the submarine's escape hatch so the men can enter the bell from the sub the diving apparatus utilizes outside water pressure to create a vacuum to make the bell cling to the disabled craft.

Later aboard the USS Bang which along with two other fleet-type subs participated in mock war maneuvers, Fisher had a first-hand account of "action" in the underwater service.

Participates In "Attack"

While participating in an "attack" on an aircraft carrier, the Bang and its crew "sank" a destroyer and in turn were "sunk" themselves, Fisher recalls.

Meanwhile efficiency of the crew which was still "green" so impressed Fisher that he understood why the fitness of a man seeking submarine duty is so carefully checked before he is even admitted to the school. A mistake could drown the entire crew aboard a sub, Fisher recalled, but the crew was in complete command of the massive maze of dials, radar, sonar projectors and other equipment.

Finally the enterprising reporter took a trip aboard a destroyer-escort on a "mission" to hunt subs. Here he saw the use of the new "hedgehogs" which "sank" their quarry during the war games.

Navy men, particularly Comdr. Edward L. Beach, young skipper of the Trigger, a new snorkel-sub, believe "the day will arrive when all warships must be able to submerge or court disaster. Atomic subs will ultimately attain speeds which previously have been considered impossible for any kind of vessel except a speedboat."

"Eventually," Beach went on, "I believe the surface of the ocean will become a no-man's land to which ships in wartime will resort only in emergency. In short, the submarine will inherit the seas."

Here men are trained in the many techniques used to escape from a trapped submarine in deep water. Students are constantly warned of the dangers of air embolisms, resulting from rupture of the lungs which occur occasionally when the ascent from deep water is made incorrectly.

Chamber Is Used

Because individual escapes are not possible in great depths or in extremely cold waters, "the best method of rescuing trapped men is the Navy's ingenious submarine rescue chamber, an 11-ton diving bell" which was used to rescue 33 men from the Squalus, which sank off Portsmouth, N. H., in 1939.

Fisher boarded the tug Skylark to witness a simulated rescue operation at sea and was given permission to go aboard the diving bell as it was lowered into the ocean. He made the 70-foot descent with crewmen from the rescue ship and while submerged they found the hatch ajar, with water pouring in from the sea for a few tense seconds before the operator could reach the hatch and close it.

Using air pressure to blow water from the submarine's escape hatch so the men can enter the bell from the sub the diving apparatus utilizes outside water pressure to create a vacuum to make the bell cling to the disabled craft.

Later aboard the USS Bang which along with two other fleet-type subs participated in mock war maneuvers, Fisher had a first-hand account of "action" in the underwater service.

Participates In "Attack"

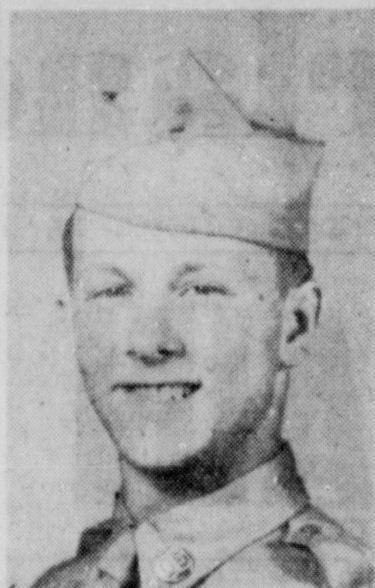

While participating in an "attack" on an aircraft carrier, the Bang and its crew "sank" a destroyer and in turn were "sunk" themselves, Fisher recalls.

Meanwhile efficiency of the crew which was still "green" so impressed Fisher that he understood why the fitness of a man seeking submarine duty is so carefully checked before he is even admitted to the school. A mistake could drown the entire crew aboard a sub, Fisher recalled, but the crew was in complete command of the massive maze of dials, radar, sonar projectors and other equipment.

Finally the enterprising reporter took a trip aboard a destroyer-escort on a "mission" to hunt subs. Here he saw the use of the new "hedgehogs" which "sank" their quarry during the war games.

Navy men, particularly Comdr. Edward L. Beach, young skipper of the Trigger, a new snorkel-sub, believe "the day will arrive when all warships must be able to submerge or court disaster. Atomic subs will ultimately attain speeds which previously have been considered impossible for any kind of vessel except a speedboat."

"Eventually," Beach went on, "I believe the surface of the ocean will become a no-man's land to which ships in wartime will resort only in emergency. In short, the submarine will inherit the seas."

Chamber Head Says Exposition "Job Well Done"

In a statement Saturday night as the lights were turned out at the Armory and Cumberland's Industrial Exposition came to an official close, Edmund S. Burke, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, called attention to the outstanding success of the three-day event. The statement follows:

"The Greater Cumberland Industrial Exposition—the mammoth parade—the great football game, are a memory this morning.

"To all who participated in any way to its success, the Chamber of Commerce wishes to express its grateful appreciation and warm thanks.

"The police officers did a splendid job in their patient task of handling the crowds and directing traffic. We salute them for their very efficient work. The Street Department had the streets in fine condition and their effort should be highly commended.

"The press and radio stations gave the whole affair more than generous support and coverage.

"This affair was not planned as a money-making event. No profit will accrue to the Chamber of Commerce.

"The purpose of the Exposition was to offer visible proof of what could be accomplished when people pull together—work together.

"Cumberland's task is not finished—there is still work to do—Community Work.

"We have made a magnificent start. By pulling together—working together, we can accomplish more. Remember the maxim 'United we stand—divided we fall'.

"Again—to all many thanks for a job well done."

Feature Story Lauds Former Local Man

Edward Wakeman, Lakeland, Fla., former Cumberlander, is the subject of a feature story in the Lakeland Ledger, concerning his pioneer work in using planes as a private business accessory.

Wakeman, a Fort Hill graduate, was the first of a group of Lakeland business men to fly their own planes instead of using trains, buses, commercial airlines and autos for transportation. A manufacturer's representative, he flies to all parts of the Eastern seaboard and to some Midwestern cities. A half dozen other Lakeland business men have followed his lead. The former Cumberlander averages about 40 hours a month in the air. Charles H. Wakeman, 121 West First Street, is his father.

Local Boy Entered In Safety Contest

A 10-year-old local boy, Michael Holshey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Holshey, 23 Wempe Drive, has been selected as the local contestant in the Loyd Order of Moose contest for Youth Honor Day Safety Awards.

His name was entered in the national contest by Cumberland Lodge No. 271, L.O.O.M. following a check of his achievement in arousing other members of his family when their residence caught fire last January 7. His action is credited with saving their lives.

When the kitchen of their home caught fire early in the morning the youth groped his way in the smoke filled bedroom and found his younger brother and dragged the half conscious boy down the stairs to safety. Then he went to another bedroom and aroused his parents.

The Holshey boy is a member of the Safety Patrol at Pennsylvania Avenue School which he attends.

He will be given a chance in the regional finals. In the event he is selected one of four regional winners the Holshey boy will receive an all-expense trip to Mooseheart in Illinois where the "Child City" is located. His father or mother will also be given the trip as his chaperone. Winners of the regional event will receive a gold wrist watch which will be presented by Bobby Benson radio star.

It's Usually Adults' Fault If Youngster Is A Show-Off

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

How strange it is that so many adults think of a child from about one and a half to five or six as an object of curiosity. Treating him as a kind of pet or toy, they are often amazed at what he says or does, even at his normal development, as if he were unusual.

In this attitude, his parents, grandparents and other relatives may share. Indeed, they may be the first to express amazement, hoping that other adults will also be aware of the child's behavior, and feeling an extension of personal pride that he is "so wonderful."

Impress Adult Friends

Accordingly, the parent or grandparent may relate or repeat things he has done or said, or cause him to repeat these, hoping they will stir up wonder and surprise among the adult friends. These parents and grandparents are hardly aware of what they are doing to the innocent youngster, not aware that they are showing him off to feed their own vanities and treating him as if he were a puppy or plaything. They are not aware that he may grow vain and bid for further exhibitions, or become self-conscious and feel he is being toyed with or laughed at.

As usually happens, this child enjoys the attention his exhibited remarks and exploits elicit, and he

Calvin Dean Johnson, first elected to Congress from Illinois in 1942, and former Illinois General Assemblyman, will be the principal speaker at the second of the season's dinner meetings sponsored by the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church, to be held Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. on the second floor of Central Y.M.C.A.

The November attraction will be the Baltimore and Ohio Glee Club. Born in Kentucky, Johnson moved with his family to Illinois. He is a descendant of the famous pioneer surgeon, Ephraim McDowell, whose statue is one of two Kentuckians in Statuary Hall of the U. S. Capitol.

As a member of the Illinois General Assembly he organized the drive to break the Loan Shark and Collection Agency Rackets of Southern Illinois. He was a member of the Woodward Commission that exposed relief racketeering, and recommended legislation to stop the exploiting of relief clients. Also sponsored the "Johnson Work or Don't Eat Law" which forced every able-bodied man on relief to work and earn the amount of his budget.

How To Help A Pal

Ring Lardner had the darndest habit of twisting things purposely. We were on our way to a preview of Cinerama the other night with two of the nicest people we know—Mr. and Mrs. Grantland Rice.

"I was looking through some old papers in my desk today," said Mrs. Rice. "and found a letter Ring sent us when we were up for some country club out in California. We had given his name. He wrote about as follows:

"Mr. Rice is a very nice fellow, and you should welcome him in your organization. He is an agreeable companion, will listen to dull stories if he can't help it, and is a good golfer. But I am sorry I can't say as much for Mrs. Rice. Look out for her. She throws things and has better control than a lot of big league pitchers. I once watched her hurl a roll and a squab in the same evening."

"Of course, he never sent the letter to anyone except us."

"Well," I remarked, "I have seen you throw a small roll when you felt good."

"Shut up," she answered politely. "That was in my past."

We were all very much impressed by the new medium which makes you a part of the picture. In fact, Mrs. Rice got a little nauseated when the audience thought they were riding on a roller coaster. It ought to be great for baseball and football. You can see the whole field and will probably be carried out on a stretcher, thinking you are hurt. But everybody else has been writing about this invention.

After the showing, we were invited back through the stage door to attend what was billed as "a small reception." Actually, there were about 300 guests sipping up refreshments and congratulating Lowell Thomas who is the man behind Cinerama when visitors could scramble up to him. Roy Howard, the newspaper publisher, filled in a conversational gap with a story as follows:

"A fellow goes into a saloon which is pretty crowded and orders a drink. The bartender turns to him and asks,

"What do you think of Truman?"

"The man looks around cautious-ly, notices the crowd, and shakes his head.

"No, there are too many people here," he answers.

"By this time the bartender's curiosity is stimulated, so in a little while he puts it up to him again. The guinea pig takes another gander, sees a few customers left and once more refuses to answer. Finally, everybody has gone home, and the bartender is getting ready to pull down the shades and close up for the night.

"Now, what do you really think of Truman?" he demands. "Again the fellow cases the joint, even looking under tables to be sure no one is there. Then he puts his hand up to his mouth and replies in a hoarse whisper.

"I like him!"

"The final nugget of the evening came when I congratulated Corey Ford on a piece he had in Reader's Digest about New England humor.

"But you omitted one gem I heard the other day," I told him. "It is about the Vermont farmer who spent the long winter reading Plato. When one of his neighbors asked him in the spring what he thought about the Greek philosopher he replied,

"Well, he certainly agrees with me."

"That's a new one to me," replied the author.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—I was whooping it up with Blossom Seeley over a couple of tall orange juices, straight, the other afternoon in the Raleigh Room of the Warwick, and it was while I was getting ready to weep a little for the good old days, sipping fitfully on the fair Blossom's shoulder, that she brought me up short with a pronouncement that I think ought to be on every old gaffer's desk.

"You know you're getting mellow," Miss Seeley said—"but you don't have to sit down and make a drama of it, do you?"

Blossom's theory, elaborated on a little, was that there wasn't any particular reason why you should give in to the first gray hair or the first time you put on glasses to read the boxscore. You should realize that those ominous signs are present, but you shouldn't let them convince you that the race is run and you can just hand-ride from here to the wire, eased up. There still are corners to turn and surprises to come upon.

This lively attitude has made Miss Seeley one of New York's most attractive older women and her care in maintaining it makes me wonder why more females don't follow suit. I would like herein to remind all women of something all of them knew once but many of them have forgotten—that nothing makes a gentleman whistle or turn his head or smile quietly to himself quite as swiftly as a dame who has, in the cliché, grown old gracefully.

I remember a Mrs. Stephenson who used to belong to my tennis club; she had a sharp-looking daughter who was one of Manhattan's top models, but on Sunday forenoons it was Mrs. Stephenson and not her charming progeny who used to make the men players at the club forget their hangovers.

She was polished gray in the hair, slim of waist, clear of eye and straight-shouldered of stocking. The effect was, on a minor scale, something like when Marlene Dietrich steps into a room. Miss Dietrich may be mellowing, as Blossom says, but she isn't reminding anyone of it unnecessarily.

I doubt if anyone is going to pry Blossom's age out of her with a crowbar, but it is on record that she was singing in a cafe in her native San Francisco in 1906, which was the earthquake year. That is 46 years ago. When I was sitting in the Warwick with her, she had on black dress and pearls, the wonderful Manhattan costume, and she didn't look 46 years old.

I do not suggest that Blossom looks as young as Margaret O'Brien. However, she still looks mighty good, an opinion that was concurred in by Benny Fields when he joined us later. And Benny has been married to "my Blossie" for more than 30 of those 46 years.

They've just made a film about the Fields. They call it "Somebody Loves Me" and we sat around talking about it awhile. It deals chiefly with the days when they were right up at the top of the vaudeville circuit as singers, and as we talked of it, Blossom got to remembering that wonderful night she broke in on Broadway. It was Christmas night, 1911; the show was Lew Fields' "The Hen Pecks," and the theater was the

Soroptimist Club To Mark First Birthday

The Cumberland Soroptimist Club, women's service club, will celebrate its first anniversary with a dinner at 6 p. m. Friday, November 14, in the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Plans for the celebration were made at a recent meeting in the Blue Room of Sheehee's Restaurant, according to Mrs. Pay Stillwagon, president.

The club also made preparations to hold a Valentine Day charity ball which will be staged Friday, February 13, at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

At the meeting, Mrs. Stillwagon, delegate, reported on the Soroptimist convention held in Washington. She also gave extracts from delegates reports of the international Soroptimist convention held in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Broadway, at 41st Street and Broadway, Charles King was in it, and Vernon and Irene Castle, and they got riotous applause when they appeared.

"When I came out," Blossom said, smiling, "you could have heard that pin drop they're always talking about. I did a number called 'Told-did-did' the 'Told-did-did' and I did the applause. I was on my way."

"The show was a smash and the night, later was long; those were the days of fabulous after-opening parties and Blossom recalled happily that she ended up at Jack's around dawn, working over champagne and ham and eggs, as was the tradition then.

Blossom and Benny have traveled the country over a hundred times in their day, but New York, New York is for them. "I used to sing a song called 'Cryin' for the Carolines,'" she said, "and in the middle of it I had a running patter in which I used to say 'What're you cryin' for, anyway? Didn't you ever see the Hudson river? Who wants the Carolines?'"

Even the youngest oldtimers, however, can't keep nostalgia away all the time. When Blossom and Benny sang "Somebody Loves Me," the two of them alone in a Hollywood projection room, one sequence gave Benny a lump in his throat. "I turned and looked at my Blossie," he said, "and I saw a big tear trickling down her cheek. For a minute I couldn't say anything.

"Then I slapped her on the back and said 'Hey—what're we sitting here crying for, like a couple of schmoes, anyway?'"

Mixed Chorus Will Present Concert Here November 3

A mixed chorus of 250 local singers will present a concert November 3 in Fort Hill High School Auditorium as the culmination of a three-day choral clinic, according to Jack E. Platt, supervisor of music in Allegheny County schools.

The three-day clinic will be conducted for all interested singers by Dr. Harry Wilson, director of choral music at Columbia University, New York.

The schedule for the clinic, to be held November 1, 2 and 3, has not been completed, Platt said.

The chorus will be comprised of the Cumberland Choral Society, the combined boys and girls glee clubs of Fort Hill and Allegheny high schools, and all other persons interested.

The clinic and concert is being sponsored jointly by the Choral Society and the Allegheny County Board of Education.

The guest consultant, Dr. Wilson, is nationally known as a composer, arranger and director. His work takes him to all parts of the United States, Platt said.

All the music on the program will be either Wilson's original compositions or arranged by him.

This concert will be the first local appearance this fall of the Cumberland Choral Society.

Platt said music specialists from West Virginia, Pennsylvania and all parts of Maryland will attend the choral clinic.

Those interested in taking part in the clinic should contact Platt at the Board of Education office.

ASSET OR LIABILITY?

YOUR reputation in the business or professional world may be either an asset or a liability, depending on what kind of reputation it is and what you seek to accomplish. It is just the same in bridge. What your partner and opponents of the moment know—and think—about you, as you strive to win, may decide the issue on many an otherwise doubtful hand. That reputation may be one gained over a long period of time. Or it may be a temporary one, stemming from something you have done a little while previously. In either event, it may work either for or against you, depending on what you do.

had put over on South during the preceding deal, which otherwise would have closed out the rubber. Against a 4-Hearts contract he had led the heart J, which made the declarer think he had a singleton and East had the Q. So South a moment later fanned against East to catch the marked Q, enabling West thereby to gain what proved the setting trick with his insufficiently-guarded Q. Except for that first lead, South would have dropped the Q with the K and A.

Also South was still smarting under that cut, when West decided to create a mean illusion. Against this No Trump grand slam he led the spade J.

"Trying the same stunt again," thought South. "But he won't get away with it this time." After winning the first trick with the spade A, South immediately laid down the K, but the Q didn't drop. Unable then to find 13 tricks, South was down one. West's reputation had beaten the contract.

Drop Is Noted In Blood Donors

The quota of blood donated here during the bloodmobile visit Monday was slightly below expectations, Mrs. W. Lee Withers, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, stated yesterday. The drop was due principally, she added, to the epidemic of colds which has hit local residents.

There were 110 pints of blood processed Monday, she continued, out of a total of 136 scheduled. The total was brought up, Mrs. Withers stated, by a total of 33 walk-ins. A good response was also received from a radio request of a special type blood needed at one of the local hospitals.

The next visit of the bloodmobile here is scheduled Monday, November 10, at the local Eagles home, North Mechanic Street. The bloodmobile will pay its first visit to the Westport area on the following day.

Mrs. Withers said persons wishing to cancel their appointments should contact the Red Cross as far in advance as is possible, in order that substitutes may be notified.

Chamber Head Says Exposition "Job Well Done"

In a statement Saturday night as the lights were turned out at the Armory and Cumberland Industrial Exposition came to an official close. Edmund S. Burke, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, called attention to the outstanding success of the three-day event. The statement follows:

"The Greater Cumberland Industrial Exposition—the mammoth parade—the great football game, are a memory this morning."

"To all who participated in any way to its success, the Chamber of Commerce wishes to express its grateful appreciation and warm thanks."

"The police officers did a splendid job in their patient task of handling the crowds and directing traffic. We salute them for their very efficient work. The Street Department had the streets in fine condition and their effort should be highly commended."

"The press and radio stations gave the whole affair more than generous support and coverage."

"This affair was not planned as a money-making event. No profit will accrue to the Chamber of Commerce."

"The purpose of the Exposition was to offer visible proof of what could be accomplished when people pull together—work together."

"Cumberland's task is not finished—there is still work to do—Community Work."

"We have made a magnificent start. By pulling together—working together, we can accomplish more. Remember the maxim 'United we stand—divided we fall'."

"Again—to all many thanks for a job well done."

Feature Story Lauds Former Local Man

Edward Wakeman, Lakeland, Fla., former Cumberlander, is the subject of a feature story in the Lakeland Ledger, concerning his pioneer work in using planes as a private business accessory.

Wakeman, a Fort Hill graduate, was the first of a group of Lakeland business men to fly their own planes instead of using trains, buses, commercial airlines and autos for transportation. A manufacturer representative, he flies to all parts of the Eastern seaboard and to some Midwestern cities. A half dozen other Lakeland business men have followed his lead. The former Cumberlander averages about 40 hours a month in the air. Charles H. Wakeman, 121 West First Street, is his father.

Calvin D. Johnson To Speak At Church Men's Club Event

Calvin Dean Johnson, first elected to Congress from Illinois in 1942, and former Illinois General Assemblyman, will be the principal speaker at the second of the season's dinner meetings sponsored by the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church, to be held Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. on the second floor of Central Y.M.C.A.

The November attraction will be the Baltimore and Ohio Glee Club.

Born in Kentucky, Johnson moved with his family to Illinois. He is a descendant of the famous pioneer surgeon, Ephraim McDowell, whose statue is one of two Kentuckians in Statuary Hall of the U. S. Capitol.

As a member of the Illinois General Assembly he organized the drive to break the Logan Shark and Collection Agency Rackets of Southern Illinois. He was a member of the Woodward Commission that exposed relief racketeering, and recommended legislation to stop the exploiting of relief clients. Also sponsored the "Johnson Work or Don't Eat Law" which forced every able-bodied man on relief to work and earn the amount of his budget.

How To Help A Pal

Ring Lardner had the darndest habit of twisting things purposely. We were on our way to a preview of Cinerama the other night with two of the nicest people we know—Mr. and Mrs. Grantland Rice.

"I was looking through some old papers in my desk today," said Mrs. Rice "and found a letter Ring sent us when we were up for some country club out in California. We had given him his name. He wrote about as follows:

"Mr. Rice is a very nice fellow and you should welcome him in your organization. He is an agreeable companion, will listen to dull stories if he can't help it, and is a good golfer. But I am sorry I can't say as much for Mrs. Rice. Look out for her. She throws things and has better control than a lot of big league pitchers. I once watched her hurl a roll and a squab in the same evening."

"Of course, he never sent the letter to anyone except us."

"Well," I remarked, "I have seen you throw a small roll when you felt good."

"Shut up," she answered politely. "That was in my past."

We were all very much impressed by the new medium which makes you a part of the picture. In fact, Mrs. Rice got a little nauseated when the audience thought they were riding on a roller coaster. It ought to be great for baseball and football. You can see the whole field and will probably be carried out on a stretcher, thinking you are hurt. But everybody else has been writing about this invention."

After the showing, we were invited back through the stage door to attend what was billed as "a small reception." Actually, there were about 300 guests sipping up refreshments and congratulating Lowell Thomas who is the man behind Cinerama when visitors could scramble up to him. Roy Howard, the newspaper publisher, filled in a conversational gap with a story as follows:

"A fellow goes into a saloon which is pretty crowded and orders a drink. The bartender turns to him and asks, 'What do you think of Truman?'"

"The man looks around cautiously, notices the crowd, and shakes his head."

"No, there are too many people here," he answers.

"By this time the bartender's curiosity is stimulated, so in a little while he puts it up to him again. The guinea pig takes another gander, sees a few customers left and once more refuses to answer. Finally, everybody has gone home, and the bartender is getting ready to pull down the shades and close up for the night."

"Now, what do you really think of Truman?" he demands. "Again the fellow cases the joint, even looking under tables to be sure no one is there. Then he puts his hand up to his mouth and replies in a hoarse whisper."

"I like him!"

The final nugget of the evening came when I congratulated Corey Ford on a piece he had in Reader's Digest about New England humor.

"But you omitted one gem I heard the other day," I told him. "It is about the Vermont farmer who spent the long winter reading Plato. When one of his neighbors asked him in the spring what he thought about the Greek philosopher he replied, 'Well, he certainly agrees with me.'"

"That's a new one to me," replied the author.

Allegany County has sold more Series E and H Defense bonds than any other county in Maryland, outside of Baltimore City and Baltimore County, according to John A. Luekemeyer, chairman of the advisory committee of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—I was whooping it up with Blossom Seeley over a couple of tall orange juices, straight, the other afternoon in the Raleigh Room of the Warwick, and it was while I was getting ready to weep a little for the good old days, sopping fitfully on the fair Blossom's shoulder, that she brought me up short with a pronouncement that I think ought to be on every old gaffer's desk.

"You know you're getting mellow," Miss Seeley said—"but you don't have to sit down and make a drama of it, do you?"

Blossom's theory, elaborated on a little, was that there wasn't any particular reason why you should give in to the first gray hair or the first time you put on glasses to read the boxscore. You should realize that those ominous signs are present, but you shouldn't let them convince you that the race is run and you can just hand-ride from here to the wire, eased up. There still are corners to turn and surprises to come upon.

This lively attitude has made Miss Seeley one of New York's most attractive older women and her care in maintaining it makes me wonder why more females don't follow suit. I would like herein to remind all women of something all of them knew once but many of them have forgotten—that nothing makes a gentleman whistle or turn his head or smile quietly to himself quite as swiftly as a dame who has, in the cliché, grown old gracefully.

I remember a Mrs. Stephenson who used to belong to my tennis club; she has a sharp-looking daughter who was one of Manhattan's top models, but on Sunday forenoons it was Mrs. Stephenson and not her charming progeny who used to make the men players at the club forget their hangers.

She was polished gray in the hair, slim of waist, clear of eye and straight-seamed of stocking. The effect was, on a minor scale, something like when Marlene Dietrich steps into a room. Miss Dietrich may be mellowing, as Blossom says, but she isn't reminding anyone of it unnecessarily.

I doubt if anyone is going to pry Blossom's age out of her with a crowbar, but it is on record that she was singing in a cafe in her native San Francisco in 1906, which was the earthquake year. That is 46 years ago. When I was sitting in the Warwick with her, she had on black dress and pearls, the wonderful Manhattan costume, and she didn't look 46 years old.

I do not suggest that Blossom looks as young as Margaret O'Brien. However, she still looks mighty good, an opinion that was concurred in by Benny Fields when he joined us later. And Benny has been married to "my Blossie" for more than 30 of those 46 years.

They've just made a film about the Fields. They call it "Somebody Loves Me" and we sat around talking about it while it deals chiefly with the days when they were right up at the top of the vaudeville circuit as singers, and as we talked of it, Blossom got to remembering that wonderful night she broke in on Broadway. It was Christmas night, 1911; the show was Lew Fields' "The Hen Pecks," and the theater was the

A mixed chorus of 250 local singers will present a concert November 3 in Fort Hill High School Auditorium as the culmination of a three-day choral clinic, according to Jack E. Platt, supervisor of music in Allegany County schools.

The three-day clinic will be conducted for all interested singers by Dr. Harry Wilson, director of choral music at Columbia University, New York.

The schedule for the clinic, to be held November 1, 2 and 3, has not been completed, Platt said.

The chorus will be comprised of the Cumberland Choral Society, the combined boys and girls glee clubs of Fort Hill and Allegany high schools, and all other persons interested.

The clinic and concert is being sponsored jointly by the Choral Society and the Allegany County Board of Education.

The guest consultant, Dr. Wilson, is nationally known as a composer, arranger and director. His work takes him to all parts of the United States, Platt said.

All the music on the program will be either Wilson's original compositions or arranged by him.

This concert will be the first local appearance this fall of the Cumberland Choral Society.

Platt said music specialists from West Virginia, Pennsylvania and all parts of Maryland will attend the choral clinic.

Those interested in taking part in the clinic should contact Platt at the Board of Education office.

Provocation And Protection

The United States may call to the attention of the current session of the UN General Assembly—convened on October 14—the shooting down of a U. S. B-29 north of Japan on October 7 by Soviet fighter planes.

Sweden already has announced that it will lodge a formal protest over the downing of two Swedish transport planes by Russian fighters over the Baltic in mid-June. And the U. S. could also take to the UN the case of four U. S. Air Force men fined the equivalent of $120,000 after landing in Hungary.

Indeed, the case of the U. S. fliers in Hungary had repercussions in the UN. Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky had revealed he had foreknowledge of their trial on December 19 when he told the UN "our military and judicial authorities" would give "due attention" to the fliers. And Deputy Foreign Minister Malik declared (January 23) that the U. S. had conceded the validity of the Hungarian charge that the airmen were "spies and intelligence agents" by paying their fines.

Immediately after the release of the airmen on December 28, 1951, the State Department announced that U. S. citizens would not be allowed to travel in Hungary, ordered Hungarian consulates in New York and Cleveland closed.

In April 1950 a U. S. Navy Privateer plane disappeared over the Baltic. The USSR never officially acknowledged that its fighter planes had shot down the American craft. But in June George Kennan, then ambassador at Moscow, protested posters at a Soviet air show picturing that incident and two other Soviet attacks on U. S. planes.

The case of the U. S. fliers in Hungary and the cases of the shooting down of Swedish and American planes in the Baltic would seem to be differentiated by the fact that the four airmen landing in Hungary did technically violate that nation's territorial integrity. At any rate, the U. S. had taken sterner action in 1946, when two American planes were successively shot down over Yugoslavia.

On August 21—two days after the second attack—the U. S. delivered a 48-hour ultimatum to the Yugoslav government, demanding the immediate release of any surviving occupants of the planes. We declared that we would call upon the UN Security Council to take appropriate action if the demand was not met. Tito backed down, released survivors, and paid an indemnity of $150,000 to the families of those who had been killed.

This most recent incident north of Japan may have been just another in a series of Soviet moves to make Uncle Sam lose face. Or, coming on the heels of the recent Moscow talks with Chinese Reds, it may be an earnest of Russia's intention to step up its "harass-America" campaign. Whatever the motivation, it's unlikely that the Soviet government will respond as the Japanese government did to the Panay incident of December 12, 1937.

The Panay, an American gunboat in the Yangtze River patrol, was evacuating American citizens from Nanking, then being mercilessly pillaged by the Japanese. A Japanese army plane bombed the American warship. Washington immediately demanded that Tokyo express full regrets, make compensation, give guarantees against a recurrence of the attack. The Japanese government complied at once.

What Determines Prices?

When the stock market turns upward or downward sharply, interpreters of trends have a field day. The market went up because an Indian rajah, with more billions than he could dispose of conveniently, bought heavily, thus proving that U. S. stocks had been underpriced. In all the world his royal highness could not find a better buy. Thus goes the theorizing.

When the market goes down, explanations are voluminous and contradictory. The market went down because the British are selling, or because somebody wanted to buy shares at a lower price and thus engineered the decline.

When the market declines on the eve of a Presidential election, it can be taken for granted that the election will be blamed. Apparently people didn't know last summer that there would be an election.

Perhaps some day an interpreter of trends will hit upon an original theory to explain the stock market's gyrations. It is so simple it is amazing that nobody has thought of it. This is that stock quotations rise when a majority of investors think shares are underpriced, and the demand begins to exceed the supply, and that they decline when a majority of investors become convinced stocks are overpriced, and the supply begins to exceed the demand.

The Burnt Child

Four years ago the pollsters were cocky. Their more scientific methods of sampling, which had replaced the hit-or-miss Literary Digest poll after its 1936 fiasco which proved fatal to the Digest, hadn't missed once.

And so, with the pride that goes before a fall, they made their 1948 predictions without adequately pointing out that the best of polls are subject to a measure of probable error. But the public learned after the election that polls aren't perfect.

But it is interesting to see how much more cautious the polling organizations are in 1952. A recent Gallup Poll release, for instance, contains the following warning in an accompanying box:

"This survey of public opinion has been produced by the most reliable research techniques available, and probably is accurate to within four per cent on the basis of past tests. It is a measure of present sentiment, not a forecast of future action. The very best polling devices presently available do not permit forecasting with certainty American Presidential elections, which frequently are too close to be divined by any known research procedures."

If limitations of polls had been understood by the American people in 1948, the election results would not have produced such disillusionment with the polls. Polls are fairly reliable and often valuable tools, but only if their limitations are recognized.

Hormonal Treatment Of Cancer

The relationship between the sex hormones and cancer of the breast, uterus, and prostate has received much publicity. Many misconceptions have arisen from these stories, including the opinion that cancer is caused or initiated by the use of these substances. The statement is far from the truth because there is no proof that this tendency is present in humans.

On the other hand, when malignancy does exist, taking hormones may stimulate the tumor to grow and spread throughout the body. This explains why a thoracic examination is in order before the products are administered and why physicians deny their indiscriminate usage. But no harm comes when they are used properly, hence the extracts are not to be feared but should be looked upon as valuable tools.

Estrogens are female sex hormones that are produced by the ovaries. They aggravate breast cancer. There is an analogous situation between the male sex hormone, testosterone, and cancer of the prostate. However, when the female hormone is given to a man with advanced prostatic malignancy it tends to delay growth of the tumor. The victim who is beyond the help of surgery and X-ray begins to feel better and in many, appetite return to such an extent that weight and strength are gained. Pain subsides and some sufferers are able to return to their former occupation. During this period the hormones are given at regular intervals and, to be on the safe side, castration may be recommended to decrease the production of the male hormone. However, improvement is temporary, rarely lasting for more than a few years. At this time the cancer cells again take the upper hand with a fatal outcome.

Women with advanced breast cancer that is beyond the aid of X-ray or surgery are helped by the administration of the proper hormone. Those under 60 years of age are given male hormones (androgens) to suppress their own secretions. This in turn discourages the tumor cells from growing, not only in the breast but in sites where spread (metastasis) has occurred. Removing the ovaries enhances the effect of testosterone and usually is recommended. The objection to these procedures is that virilism may result, with unwanted hair on the face, voice change, and the appearance of other male characteristics, but most women consider these aftereffects of treatment minor when compared with the relief of distress and the few more years of life that are obtained. Women over 60 have passed through the menopause at least five years previously. Their ovaries no longer are active and testosterone, therefore, has little influence on the tumor. In such instances, female hormones will retard the growth of the cancer cells.

The enigma of the influence of the endocrine secretions on cell growth is being studied intensively. When the answers are found we will know much more about malignant cells because, in cancer, cell metabolism has gone awry.

TOMORROW: Psychoanalysis and the guilty conscience.

GERM THEORY

L. C. writes: Is cancer caused by a germ?

REPLY

This is one of the many theories on the cause of cancer. It stems from the observation that germs have been found in the middle of cancer cells. To date, no one has offered satisfactory proof that organisms are causative.

PSORIASIS AND SUN

M. W. writes: My psoriasis always gets better in the summer time after a lot of sun bathing, and then becomes more active in the fall. Would treatment with a sun lamp be of any value?

REPLY

This is the normal pattern of psoriasis and it may be that exposure to a sun lamp would be helpful, now that Old Sol is not so available. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on psoriasis.

HAVE FUN

Mrs. S. writes: Will my husband be able to join his friends in a few drinks occasionally, now that his gall bladder has been removed?

REPLY

Yes, if he is so inclined.

PROSTATE AND DIET

L. M. writes: Does prostate gland trouble call for a diet of any kind?

REPLY

No, except to avoid highly spiced foods and alcohol, which have a tendency to irritate the bladder wall.

YES, CLOSELY SUPERVISED

D. C. writes: Can a person with arrested tuberculosis safely take cortisone for arthritis?

REPLY

Yes, provided tuberculosis has been arrested for at least a year and the individual is willing to follow directions to the letter.

WHEEZES ON MUGGY DAY

Mrs. C. writes: Why do I suffer from bronchial asthma only in humid weather? When the atmosphere is clear, I'm not bothered.

REPLY

Changes in weather alter the conditions of the mucous membranes so that many asthmatics learn to dread humid days.

Senator Who Attacks Government Gets Away With Amazing Financial Transactions; McCarthy Received $24,000 In Cash In Six Years

WASHINGTON—It is an axiom of military strategy that the best defense is to attack. But in political strategy it looks as if the best defense against income tax investigation is to charge that the government is full of Communists.

If you repeat that charge often enough and shout it loud enough, you can get away with all sorts of things as far as your personal taxes are concerned—or at least that seems to be the experience of Wisconsin's Senator Joe McCarthy.

This may be because government officials know that they raise the cry of "martyr" and "revenge" if they prosecute a critic who has attacked them.

It is a safe statement that the average newspaperman who kept financial records the way McCarthy does, and juggled his finances the way he does, would have landed in the jug sometime ago. However, it is a known though never officially admitted fact that senators and members of the House of Representatives never have their tax returns too carefully scrutinized. This is the unwritten rule of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The fact that McCarthy merits investigation and scrutiny, however, is indicated by the amazing fact that during the past six and a half years the senator from Wisconsin deposited $24,185.44 in cash to his bank accounts.

McCarthy's Cash

The average citizen does not deal in large amounts of cash. Cash is the medium of the underworld, where pay-offs and protection money must be concealed. However, here is the record of the cash deposited by a member of the distinguished United States Senate, the most important deliberative body in the world:

1946	$2,640
1947	$2,778
1948	$1,778
1949	$5,346
1950	$4,068
1951	$1,709
1952 up until June 30	$6,185

Even more amazing is the amount of money received by the senator from Wisconsin from unidentified sources. Deposits turned up in the senator's accounts with no record by the bank or brokerage firm as to where they came from.

For this and other reasons, McCarthy was able to parlay $70,490 of income during 11 years (1935 through 1945) up to stocks that cost him $189,000.

McCarthy did this long before he began his Communist campaign. But since he took up the Communist issue he has continued to gamble on the stock and commodity market. And though the public generally has the impression of a man dedicated to the cause of ridding the world of communism, the senator's bank accounts indicate that he is chiefly out to make something for McCarthy.

Public office seems to agree with McCarthy financially. For after he got into public office he really began to make money. In 1935 he earned only $777.81. And during the entire period from 1931 to 1942 he averaged only $4,163.32 a year in salary. Just one year later, in 1943, he reported income of $40,560.92 from the sale of stocks that he had bought. Just how he was able to acquire such valuable stocks when his income had averaged only $4,163.32 for seven years is difficult to say—especially since McCarthy was in the Marine Corps during part of this time.

McCarthy also had a strange habit of deducting from his income tax returns disproportionate contributions to charities, one of them to a Catholic charity in far-away Burma which actually did not exist. Finally tax officials in Wisconsin reminded him that this didn't look quite kosher, and in 1950 he stopped.

Unidentified Money

However, the unique thing about McCarthy's income was the money which came from anonymous or unidentified people. In three years a total of 75,000 of unidentified funds were deposited in the Riggs bank alone.

Another case involved the Appleton State Bank in Wisconsin. In 1946 it was dunning McCarthy for funds in order to cover a loan, when suddenly from a completely unidentified source a total of $38,045.72 was deposited to McCarthy's account.

One of McCarthy's financial schemes was a joint banking account with his office assistant Ray Kiermas. Mr. Kiermas has had an average annual income of about $6,500. Yet from sources best known to himself, Kiermas has made large deposits not only to his own account but has also deposited funds to the senator's account.

It is possible that the senator had banked through his office assistant in order to cover the source of certain people who have paid him. He has also apparently used his brother, William P. McCarthy.

On August 26, 1948, for instance, a Commodity Credit account was opened with Dan F. Rice and Company, Chicago grain traders, in the name of William P. McCarthy. Though in his brother's name, the $10,000 used to open the account actually came from Ray Kiermas to the extent of $6,223.72, while the balance was supplied by a draft on the Appleton State Bank which suddenly seems to have lost its records and cannot now identify the source of this money.

Three years later, March 8, 1951, the account with D. F. Rice was closed out, a check for $7,159 going to William P. McCarthy. This check was cashed, and the cash was deposited 10 days later back with the same D. F. Rice Co.

This time, however, the trading account was in the name of Julia Connelly, the maiden name of William McCarthy's wife.

In 1951, the date when the Commodity account was closed out and then re-established under Julia Connelly's name, it so happened that the senator from Wisconsin was beginning to come under the scrutiny of his fellow senators for extracurricular conduct.

This is just one chapter in the operation of a senator who has set himself up in judgment over his fellowmen.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Some Phonies

WASHINGTON

Being reunited after a good many weeks of cross country barnstorming, these reporters have tried to pool their impressions of the Presidential campaign to date. The result, it may as well be admitted, has not been immensely enlightening. Yet there is one point of strong agreement. Some very phony clichés are now being parroted by all and sundry.

One such phony is the story that Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson "has been talking over the head of the average man." This one is oddly reminiscent of the soothing promises of the professional huckster; that you can join the national elite by buying this mass-produced toothpaste or that mass-produced deodorant.

People are a bit cynical about the huckster's promises nowadays, but a lot of them take the Stevenson story with comic literalness. All over the country, perfectly impeccably average men and women rather smugly tell you, "Of course, what Gov. Stevenson says is over the head of the average guy, but I think he is the best speaker I've ever heard."

Thus what was originally Republican propaganda against Stevenson, has now transformed enjoyment of a Stevenson speech into a sort of patent of intellectual nobility. More and more millions are becoming noble this easy way, without even the bother of returning a box-top.

Not all Stevenson's speeches have been successful, to be sure. Every so often he lets his entourage tell him a little gem of Paris-Rome exposition such as his labor speech in Detroit or his atomic energy speech in Connecticut. These school exercises fall flat. But the more characteristic Stevenson orations almost invariably charm and very often move and persuade the governor's hearers. He is undoubtedly attracting an increasing audience. By his voice alone, he is undoubtedly catching the public imagination. And these developments in turn account for the increasing crowds at Stevenson's meetings, and the feeling of a Democratic upturn that many observers now have.

Went Over Big

A similar phony, but with reverse English, is the theory that Sen. Richard Nixon's famous television broadcast on his private expense fund was an unalloyed triumph. A typical experience of one of these reporters occurred on the trip back to Washington, a few days ago. Five fellow voyagers, all extremely average, modest-to-prosperous businessmen, were engaged in the usual smoking-room talk about politics. The topic of Nixon came up, as it often does in such gatherings.

"Of course," said one of the group, "that telecast of Nixon's was pure corn, and after I thought about it a little I didn't like it much. But it went over big with the average guy." The four other perfectly average guys in the group solemnly agreed that what Nixon said was "soap opera" but had pleased the common people. Three of the five rather shrewdly inquired how bribery was ever to be identified if the acceptance of personal expense funds became an approved practice. And so the subject was somewhat comically disposed of, in a way that both these reporters have often encountered.

Ike A Superb Campaigner

Besides quantities of such accidental evidence, there are some pretty hard facts that suggest the Nixon affair was not all gain for the Republicans. For instance, after the Nixon telecast, the pro-Nixon "San Francisco Chronicle," with a daily circulation of about 160,000, received the truly staggering total of almost 2,000 letters. At least nine in every ten of these letters were critical of Nixon. Many other newspapers, right across the country, are reported to have encountered a similar delayed anti-Nixon reaction.

In short, if Nixon made friends, he also made enemies. And in politics the enemies often count more than the friends.

A good many other phonies are also in current circulation, such as the common theory that Gen. Eisenhower is a "poor campaigner." (He is only a moderate speaker, but no one who can project the glowing warmth of his personality to such vast crowds as Eisenhower, can be called anything but a superb campaigner.) Yet rather than continue to pile up the list of these misleading campaign clichés, it may be useful to note how dangerous they can be. Here again, the Nixon affair is a case in point.

The praise Nixon received after his telecast almost seems to have gone to the young senator's head. At any rate, Nixon was infuriated because Gen. Eisenhower continued to ask for a "personal accounting," even after he had heard all about Checkers, the spaniel. On his train, Nixon let it be known that he had told Eisenhower, "you can't do this to me," and his aids freely said that Nixon "wasn't going to crawl on his belly to that so-and-so."

In this mood, instead of acceding to Eisenhower's request for a face-to-face meeting, Nixon defiantly went all the way to Missoula, Mont., to resume his campaign schedule. A great deal of Cupid's messenger work had to be done before Nixon was persuaded to meet Gen. Eisenhower at Wheeling, W. Va. The personal accounting was then reduced to a few tears, but the tears will hardly assure good future relations between Nixon and Eisenhower.

By the same token; every phony campaign-time cliché either distorts a relationship, or gives a wrong twist to present strategy, or creates a mortgage on the political future. Hard-headed honesty really is the best policy, at least most of the time in a political campaign.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Denaturalization

Residence in the United States for one born in this country is a right; for an alien, it is a privilege. Those born in the United States are citizens by constitutional provision; those who are naturalized are granted a courtesy and a privilege. There seems to be a tendency for some aliens to assume that they have rights about living in this country, interfering in its affairs, and becoming naturalized. They also imagine that once they receive their "citizenship papers," they are all set and have no further obligation to our country. It is all take and no give. They fail to realize that citizenship can be revoked as well as granted.

Attorney General James McGranery has raised two issues: One, that the citizenship of undesirable persons should be revoked, and two, that such persons as Charlie Chaplin, having left this country, must justify their desire to return to it.

The privilege of being an American is so valuable that the alien who abuses it ought to be relieved of it. In the matter of Frank Costello or Mrs. Earl Browder, Attorney General McGranery is correct that the privilege has been abused. As a matter of fact, the cost of imprisonment of alien gangsters and subversives ought not to be charged to the taxpayer; these people ought to be sent where they came from, or if their native governments reject them, they ought to be put on an island in the Bering Sea to gaze upon Soviet Russia where hooliganism and subversion are handled summarily.

Thousands of persons, ordered deported by our courts or by departments of government, remain in this country, free to do anything they choose, including the commission of crimes on account of which they were ordered deported, because no other government will accept them. This is an inefficient and it would seem, even a stupid way of handling such undesirables. If ordered deported, they should be thrown out of the country to dwell wherever they can, or they should be put on an island. Actually, the deportee can laugh at our laws and our courts, because, in such matters, there are no means available to enforce the law.

As regards Charlie Chaplin, he has lived here for about 40 years, growing rich as a clown in the movies. He never became a citizen, which is his right, but he interfered in our political life, usually on the wrong side. His reason for being on the wrong side is that he claims that he is an internationalist and abhors nationalism, which is like saying one is for Stalin's kind of peace while our boys are being killed in Korea.

Chaplin might have made our our soldiers laugh in World War I or in World War II or in the Korean War by clowning before them, but he chose not to do that, although many actors and actresses gave their time and even risked their lives in the war. Bob Hope, for instance, also originally an Englishman, never pled that he was an internationalist and therefore could not cheer the soldiers. We honor Bob Hope for his war services and many abhor Charlie Chaplin for his failure to serve.

This fellow has returned to England, not because he loves his native land, but to advertise a motion picture which he has made and which I shall never see. Maybe he will have a great send-off in England, such as he could not have had in New York. Attorney General McGranery proposes that when Charlie Chaplin attempts to re-enter this country, he should show proof of his worthiness to live and work among us. The fact that he has lived here long has no bearing on the subject, because he chose not to become an American citizen and therefore enters like any other alien. The fact that he is an artist does not justify an arrogant attitude toward our way of life.

So, it is to be hoped that the Department of Justice will proceed with this case. I understand that the American Legion's Americanism Commission has passed a resolution suggesting that Charlie Chaplin's new film hold it up until these pending matters are settled. The distributors may not choose to listen to the American Legion's advice, but I shall abide by their resolution.

The victim who is beyond the help of surgery and X-ray begins to feel better and in many, appetite return to such an extent that weight and strength are gained. Pain subsides and some sufferers are able to return to their former occupation. During this period the hormones are given at regular intervals and, to be on the safe side, castration may be recommended to decrease the production of the male hormone. However, improvement is temporary, rarely lasting for more than a few years. At this time the cancer cells again take the upper hand with a fatal outcome.

Women with advanced breast cancer that is beyond the aid of X-ray or surgery are helped by the administration of the proper hormone. Those under 60 years of age are given male hormones (androgens) to suppress their own secretions. This in turn discourages the tumor cells from growing, not only in the breast but in sites where spread (metastasis) has occurred. Removing the ovaries enhances the effect of testosterone and usually is recommended. The objection to these procedures is that virilism may result, with unwanted hair on the face, voice change, and the appearance of other male characteristics, but most women consider these aftermaths of treatment minor when compared with the relief of distress and the few more years of life that are obtained. Women over 60 have passed thru the menopause at least five years previously. Their ovaries no longer are active and testosterone, therefore, has little influence on the tumor. In such instances, female hormones will retard the growth of the cancer cells.

The enigma of the influence of the endocrine secretions on cell growth is being studied intensively. When the answers are found we will know much more about malignant cells because, in cancer, cell metabolism has gone awry.

GERM THEORY

L. C. writes: Is cancer caused by a germ?

REPLY

This is one of the many theories on the cause of cancer. It stems from the observation that germs have been found in the middle of cancer cells. To date, no one has offered satisfactory proof that organisms are causative.

PSORIASIS AND SUN

M. W. writes: My psoriasis always gets better in the summer time after a lot of sun bathing, and then becomes more active in the fall. Would treatment with a sun lamp be of any value?

REPLY

This is the normal pattern of psoriasis and it may be that exposure to a sun lamp would be helpful, now that Old Sol is not so available. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on psoriasis.

HAVE FUN

Mrs. S. writes: Will my husband be able to join his friends in a few drinks occasionally, now that his gall bladder has been removed?

REPLY

Yes, if he is so inclined.

PROSTATE AND DIET

L. M. writes: Does prostate gland trouble call for a diet of any kind?

REPLY

No, except to avoid highly spiced foods and alcohol, which have a tendency to irritate the bladder wall.

YES, CLOSELY SUPERVISED

D. C. writes: Can a person with arrested tuberculosis safely take cortisone for arthritis?

REPLY

Yes, provided tuberculosis has been arrested for at least a year and the individual is willing to follow directions to the letter.

WHEEZES ON MUGGY DAY

Mrs. C. writes: Why do I suffer from bronchial asthma only in humid weather? When the atmosphere is clear, I'm not bothered.

REPLY

Changes in weather alter the conditions of the mucous membranes so that many asthmatics learn to dread humid days.

Senator Who Attacks Government Gets Away With Amazing Financial Transactions; McCarthy Received $24,000 In Cash In Six Years

WASHINGTON—It is an axiom of military strategy that the best defense is to attack. But in political strategy it looks as if the best defense against income tax investigation is to charge that the government is full of Communists.

If you repeat that charge often enough and shout it loud enough, you can get away with all sorts of things as far as your personal taxes are concerned—or at least that seems to be the experience of Wisconsin's Senator Joe McCarthy.

This may be because government officials know that they raise the cry of "martyr" and "revenge" if they prosecute a critic who has attacked them.

It is a safe statement that the average newspaperman who kept financial records the way McCarthy does, and juggled his finances the way he does, would have landed in the jug sometime ago. However, it is a known though never officially admitted fact that senators and members of the House of Representatives never have their tax returns too carefully scrutinized. This is the unwritten rule of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The fact that McCarthy merits investigation and scrutiny, however, is indicated by the amazing fact that during the past six and a half years the senator from Wisconsin deposited $24,185.44 in cash to his bank accounts.

McCarthy's Cash

The average citizen does not deal in large amounts of cash. Cash is the medium of the underworld, where pay-offs and protection money must be concealed. However, here is the record of the cash deposited by a member of the distinguished United States Senate, the most important deliberative body in the world:

1946	$2,640
1947	$2,778
1948	$1,778
1949	$5,346
1950	$4,068
1951	$1,709
1952 up until June 30	$6,185

Even more amazing is the amount of money received by the senator from Wisconsin from unidentified sources. Deposits turned up in the senator's accounts with no record by the bank or brokerage firm as to where they came from. For this and other reasons, McCarthy was able to parlay $70,490 of income during 11 years (1935 through 1945) up to stocks that cost him $180,000.

McCarthy did this long before he began his Communist campaign. But since he took up the Communist issue he has continued to gamble on the stock and commodity market. And though the public generally has the impression of a man dedicated to the cause of ridding the world of communism, the senator's bank accounts indicate that he is chiefly out to make something for McCarthy.

Public office seems to agree with McCarthy financially. For after he got into public office he really began to make money. In 1935 he earned only $777.81. And during the entire period from 1931 to 1942 he averaged only $4,163.32 a year in salary. Just one year later, in 1943, he reported income of $40,569.92 from the sale of stocks that he had bought. Just how he was able to acquire such valuable stocks when his income had averaged only $4,163.32 for seven years is difficult to say—especially since McCarthy was in the Marine Corps during part of this time.

McCarthy also had a strange habit of deducting from his income tax returns disproportionate contributions to charities, one of them to a Catholic charity in far-away Burma which actually did not exist. Finally tax officials in Wisconsin reminded him that this didn't look quite kosher, and in 1950 he stopped.

Unidentified Money

However, the unique thing about McCarthy's income was the money which came from anonymous or unidentified people. In three years a total of 75,000 of unidentified funds were deposited in the Riggs bank alone.

Another case involved the Appleton State Bank in Wisconsin. In 1946 it was dunning McCarthy for funds in order to cover a loan, when suddenly from a completely unidentified source a total of $38,045.72 was deposited to McCarthy's account.

One of McCarthy's financial schemes was a joint banking account with his office assistant Ray Kiermas. Mr. Kiermas has had an average annual income of about $6,500. Yet from sources best known to himself, Kiermas has made large deposits not only to his own account but has also deposited funds to the senator's account.

It is possible that the senator had banked through his office assistant in order to cover the source of certain people who have paid him. He has also apparently used his brother, William P. McCarthy, or elsewhere. Preceding the last depression only about 150 of these annual national conventions were held. I learn today that over 585 are already planned for the next eight months. Moreover, plans are made so that this number could be doubled if unemployment should seriously return.

Visual Demonstrations

At these conventions the sales forces not only hear speeches; but these speeches are illustrated by films, tape recorders, dioramas and "flip photos." In short, when the last depression struck the country was unprepared with no economic army, navy or air force. But, today we have in reserve for special use, in case of unemployment, a sales army, an advertising navy, and a radio-television air force. These can be thrown into activity at the drop of a hat.

So long as people are dishonest, inefficient or lazy, there will be business depressions; the same as there are sicknesses when we abuse our health. As, however, new treatments and new drugs are reducing the death rate, so these new sales developments can prevent unemployment from becoming too severe. In other words, we are now building up an economic "fire department" to prevent an economic conflagration. This, we never had before.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Some Phonies

WASHINGTON

Being reunited after a good many weeks of cross country barnstorming, these reporters have tried to pool their impressions of the Presidential campaign to date. The result, it may as well be admitted, has not been immensely enlightening. Yet there is one point of strong agreement. Some very phoney clichés are now being parroted by all and sundry.

One such phoney is the story that Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson "has been talking over the head of the average man." This one is oddly reminiscent of the soothing promises of the professional huckster; that you can join the national elite by buying this mass-produced toothpaste or that mass-produced deodorant.

People are a bit cynical about the huckster's promises nowadays, but a lot of them take the Stevenson story with comic literalness. All over the country, perfectly impeccably average men and women rather smugly tell you, "Of course, what Gov. Stevenson says is over the head of the average guy, but I think he is the best speaker I've ever heard."

Thus what was originally Republican propaganda against Stevenson, has now transformed enjoyment of a Stevenson speech into a sort of patent of intellectual nobility. More and more millions are becoming noble this easy way, without even the bother of returning a box-top.

Not all Stevenson's speeches have been successful, to be sure. Every so often he lets his entourage tell him a little gem of Paris-Rome exposition such as his labor speech in Detroit or his atomic energy speech in Connecticut. These school exercises fall flat. But the more characteristic Stevenson orations almost invariably charm and very often move and persuade the governor's hearers. He is undoubtedly attracting an increasing audience. By his voice alone, he is undoubtedly catching the public imagination. And these developments in turn account for the increasing crowds at Stevenson's meetings, and the feeling of a Democratic upturn that many observers now have.

Went Over Big

A similar phoney, but with reverse English, is the theory that Sen. Richard Nixon's famous television broadcast on his private expense fund was an unalloyed triumph. A typical experience of one of these reporters occurred on the trip back to Washington, a few days ago. Five fellow voyagers, all extremely average, modest-to-prosperous businessmen, were engaged in the usual smoking-room talk about politics. The topic of Nixon came up, as it often does in such gatherings.

"Of course," said one of the group, "that telecast of Nixon's was pure corn, and after I thought about it a little I didn't like it much. But it went over big with the average guy." The four other perfectly average guys in the group solemnly agreed that what Nixon said was "soap opera" but had pleased the common people. Three of the five rather shrewdly inquired how bribery was ever to be identified if the acceptance of personal expense funds became an approved practice. And so the subject was somewhat comically disposed of, in a way that both these reporters have often encountered.

Ike A Superb Campaigner

Besides quantities of such accidental evidence, there are some pretty hard facts that suggest the Nixon affair was not all gain for the Republicans. For instance, after the Nixon telecast, the pro-Nixon "San Francisco Chronicle," with a daily circulation of about 160,000, received the truly staggering total of almost 2,000 letters. At least nine in every ten of these letters were critical of Nixon. Many other newspapers, right across the country, are reported to have encountered a similar delayed anti-Nixon reaction.

In short, if Nixon made friends, he also made enemies. And in politics the enemies often count more than the friends.

A good many other phonies are also in current circulation, such as the common theory that Gen. Eisenhower is a "poor campaigner." (He is only a moderate speaker, but no one who can project the glowing warmth of his personality to such vast crowds as Eisenhower, can be called anything but a superb campaigner.) Yet rather than continue to pile up the list of these misleading campaign clichés, it may be useful to note how dangerous they can be. Here again, the Nixon affair is a case in point.

The praise Nixon received after his telecast almost seems to have gone to the young senator's head. At any rate, Nixon was infuriated because Gen. Eisenhower continued to ask for a "personal accounting," even after he had heard all about Checkers, the spaniel. On his train, Nixon let it be known that he had told Eisenhower, "You can't do this to me;" and his aids freely said that Nixon "wasn't going to crawl on his belly to that so-and-so."

In this mood, instead of acceding to Eisenhower's request for a face-to-face meeting, Nixon defiantly went all the way to Missoula, Mont., to resume his Cupid's schedule. A great deal of Cupid's messenger work had to be done before Nixon was persuaded to meet Gen. Eisenhower at Wheeling, W. Va. The personal accounting was then reduced to a few tears, but the tears will hardly assure good future relations between Nixon and Eisenhower.

By the same token; every phoney campaign-time cliché either distorts a relationship, or gives a wrong twist to present strategy, or creates a mortgage on the political future. Hard-headed honesty really is the best policy, at least most of the time in a political campaign.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Denaturalization

Residence in the United States for one born in this country is a right; for an alien, it is a privilege. Those born in the United States are citizens by constitutional provision; those who are naturalized are granted a courtesy and a privilege. There seems to be a tendency for some aliens to assume that they have rights about living in this country, interfering in its affairs and becoming naturalized. They also imagine that once they receive their "citizenship papers," they are all set and have no further obligation to our country. It is all take and no give. They fail to realize that citizenship can be revoked as well as granted.

Attorney General James McGranary has raised two issues: One, that the citizenship of undesirable persons should be revoked and, two, that such persons as Charlie Chaplin, having left this country, must justify their desire to return to it.

The privilege of being an American is so valuable that the alien who abuses it ought to be relieved of it. In the matter of Frank Costello or Mrs. Earl Browder, Attorney General McGranary is correct that the privilege has been abused. As a matter of fact, the cost of imprisonment of alien gangsters and subversives ought not to be charged to the taxpayer; these people ought to be sent where they came from, or if their native governments reject them, they ought to be put on an island in the Bering Sea to gaze upon Soviet Russia where hoodliganism and subversion are handled summarily.

Thousands of persons, ordered deported by our courts or by departments of government, remain in this country, free to do anything they choose, including the commission of crimes on account of which they were ordered deported, because no other government will accept them. This is an inefficient and, it would seem, even a stupid way of handling such undesirables. If ordered deported, they should be thrown out of the country to dwell wherever they can, or they should be put on an island. Actually, the deportee can laugh at our laws and our courts, because, in such matters, there are no means available to enforce the law.

As regards Charlie Chaplin, he has lived here for about 40 years, growing rich as a clown in the movies. He never became a citizen, which is his right, but he interfered in our political life, usually on the wrong side. His reason for being on the wrong side is that he claims that he is an internationalist and abhors nationalism, which is like saying one is for Stalin's kind of peace while our boys are being killed in Korea.

Chaplin might have made our our soldiers laugh in World War I or in World War II or in the Korean War by clowning before them, but he chose not to do that, although many actors and actresses gave their time and even risked their lives in the war. Bob Hope, for instance, also originally an Englishman, never pled that he was an internationalist and therefore could not cheer the soldiers. We honor Bob Hope for his war services and many other Charlie Chaplins for his failure to serve.

This fellow has returned to England, not because he loves his native land, but to advertise a motion picture which he has made and which I shall never see. Maybe he will have a great send-off in England, such as he could not have had in New York. Attorney General McGranary proposes that when Charlie Chaplin attempts to re-enter this country, he should show proof of his worthiness to live and work among us. The fact that he has lived here long has no bearing on the subject, because he chose not to become an American citizen and therefore enters like any other alien. The fact that he is an artist does not justify an arrogant attitude toward our way of life.

So, it is to be hoped that the Department of Justice will proceed with this case. I understand that the American Legion's Americanism Commission has passed a resolution concerning Charlie Chaplin suggesting that the distributors of his new film hold it up until these pending matters are settled. The distributors may not choose to listen to the American Legion's advice, but I shall abide by their resolution.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19 (INS) — Difficult to imagine stunning Irene Dunne looking dowdy, even on the screen. I don't remember when I've ever seen Irene more beautiful.

Being a dowdy school teacher, however, is Irene's fate in her movie "The Wisdom of the Serpent," a new novelette by Adele Rogers St. John, due for publication in Cosmopolitan Magazine in December. Later in the story Irene turns into a glamor girl.

"Wisdom of The Serpent" is another of Arthur Lubin's package deals of a star, story and himself as director, and the second Irene has made for him on that basis. The other is "It Grows On Trees." Lubin also directed the "Francis" series.

While she is in town Tallulah Bankhead is staying with Roland Leigh — and I'll say for her that never in her life has she kept such early hours.

Today she was a happy girl because, being a wild-eyed Giant fan, she has a scene with Leo Durocher in "From Main Street To Broadway" in which he plays himself.

I repeat again, I never had a feud with Tallulah. She asked me if I cared what she wrote in her book and I said, "No, I was flattered."

"I'm glad," she said, "because I couldn't make it sound too dull. Lots of people are upset because I didn't even mention them" — but she wouldn't tell of whom she was speaking.

John Wayne and Jane Powell have been voted the most popular stars of 1952 in the Modern Screen poll, based on a survey of its many readers.

Lana Turner and Alan Ladd are named the ten year popularity champions. Marge and Gower Champion 1952's newest co-starring discoveries, and Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, Hollywood's all champion comedy team.

Others who will be given awards by publisher George T. Delacorte at a cocktail party Wednesday at the Beverly Hills Hotel are the ten most promising young players and the ten top poll winners of the year.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: are Kay Williams Spreckels and Bentley Ryan a romance item? Looks that way.

Paul Douglas and Jan Sterling, who did a great job entertaining our service men in Korea at Christmas time last year, will do a repeat performance this year.

Joe Di Maggio's ex, Dorothy Arnold, is having Tom Kelly do some glamor photographs of her. He photographed the famous Marilyn Monroe calendar.

The John Ringling North-Gloria Drew romance which went on for four years, is ended now. He's in Italy, she's in Paris, and she's refusing telephone calls.

Betty Dodero, ex-wife of Alan Curtis, and Hugh Shannon have set the date for their marriage in late November. The place Madrid. Nicky Hilton hasn't had a drink in a long time and he says he never intends to take another. He looked wonderful at the Mocambo with Mary Murphy, Paramount starlet, and he was drinking only soft drinks.

A cable from Malta says that Michael Rennie and Jeffrey Hunter, on location for 20th had cocktails with the King and Queen of Sweden, Princess Alice of Greece, mother of the Duke of Edinburgh, and Lord and Lady Mountbatten. ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, (INS) — At Yucca Flat last spring, just after the test of the giant economy size a-bomb, I talked to a Korean veteran who was present in a trench about four or five miles from ground zero.

He wasn't too interested in the blistering heat the atomic conflagration generated, or the blast, noise, awe-inspiring mushroom or so forth. It reminded him of Korea, he said, because it was so different.

"I kept thinking after it went off what a hell of a way to run that war in Korea," he said. "We got something like this to take hills with, or whatever else we want to take, so we don't use it. Instead we send a lot of stiffs like me crawling up a hill with a carbine trying to throw some Chinks off the top. Lot of guys get killed; lot of guys get real beat up. Gosh, a little pinch of this stuff that went off today would've saved a lot of guys I knew."

We appear to be getting around to using that little pinch.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins told the Carnegie Institute Society in Pittsburgh last Thursday night, "We will have such (atomic) missiles in the hands of our soldiers in the not too distant future." A few days earlier the Pentagon permitted the release of pictures of a new 12-inch gun capable of lobbing an atomic shell 20 miles.

I put these two events together. Sprinkle with the fact that people are becoming appalled by the sudden rise in the Korean casualty rate, remember that strange things can happen on the eve of a national election, and come up with the conclusion that the momentous atomic slide of World War 2½ is about to open.

If it does, we will have taken a violent stride in the plunge of man toward finding new methods of killing wholesale. When the first atomic shell is fired at some nameless Korean hilltop, or into the teeth of a tidal wave of advancing Chinese and North Korean troops, warfare will undergo the wrenching change it experienced when the first catapult was used, the first cross-bow, the first horse, first gunpowder, first tank, first dive bomber.

In time, the enemy will have much the same kind of weapons, perhaps even an improved implement in the field of atomic necromancy. No nation ever maintained for any length of time a monopoly on a specific weapon, particularly when the force aligns against it as was astute a conspiracy as the U.S.S.R.

The Reds got the strategic a-bomb and the basic knowledge connected with it for an all-time bargain price. Dr. Allan Nunnmay said there pure U-235 for $700 and two bottles of Scotch. Dr. Klaus Fuchs reluctantly accepted $500 for an incalculable wealth of information. Sgt. David Greenglass scrounged $500 for delivering the multi-million dollar plans of the a-bomb tripper Harry Gold and the doomed Rosenbergs actually spent some of their own hard-won money helping Russia get its full of secrets.

The assumption therefore must be that the Reds will come up with the battlefield type of atomic weapon. It does not seem likely that they have it now, however, and therefore if we are ever to capitalize on what we have—and stop the Korean war in its tracks—the time in which we can do it is limited.

If we indeed are on the brink of using the eruptive atom in Korea, and we give warning in advance, there will be a storm of articulate protest in this country. It will be spearheaded—aside by the routine Pinks—by a number of U. S. physicists, many of whom participated in the original release of atomic Bulging-knee contours are the result of a posture fault. They are easily corrected and here's how!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You can tell a Scotsman by his knees, say the British. But I can tell when a damsel's knees bulge without even seeing them! When she stands and walks stiffly, it's a sure thing.

Like so many other figure imperfections, knee bulges are caused by awkward and incorrect posture. In this instance, the fault is the habitual practice of putting a strain on the knees by holding them rigid; the muscles and tissues are forced to spread to support the pressure and weight imposed by this unnatural position.

Reshape Knees
Every woman should school herself to keep knees flexed when standing and to use them with a springlike action when walking. While sitting, the back of the knee should never be pressed against the seat — there should always be at least two inches between the knee and edge of the chair.

If your knees already have developed an exaggerated curve or bulge, make every effort to stand, walk and sit with your knees in the positions described above. Eventually, your knee kinks will be eradicated and a new grace will be yours.

You can speed the recontouring of your knees with this exercise; it is most effective:

energy and signed the rejected petition urging that the a-bomb not be used against Japan.

Look, too, for a protest from Prof. Albert Einstein, whose "E equals MC²" theory foresaw the release of torrential energy from the atom. Einstein was not considered a good security risk during the creation of the initial bomb, even though he brought the entire prospect of the military uses of atomic energy to the attention of the late F.D.R.

Then try to draw your feet together by using your inner thigh and calf muscles. Do not let your feet do the work and don't worry if at first they fail to budge. As long as you feel a strong pull throughout the entire length of your legs, you are reaping the benefits that the exercise offers.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19 (INS) — Difficult to imagine stunning Irene Dunne looking dowdy, even on the screen. I don't remember when I've ever seen Irene more beautiful.

Being a dowdy school teacher, however, is Irene's fate in her movie "The Wisdom of the Serpent," a new novelette by Adele Rogers St. John, due for publication in Cosmopolitan Magazine in December. Later in the story Irene turns into a glamor girl.

"Wisdom Of The Serpent" is another of Arthur Lubin's package deals of a star, story and himself as director, and the second Irene has made for him on that basis. The other is "It Grows On Trees," Lubin also directed the "Francis" series.

While she is in town Tallulah Bankhead is staying with Roland Leigh — and I'll say for her that never in her life has she kept such early hours.

Today she was a happy girl because, being a wild-eyed giant fan, she has a scene with Leo Durocher in "From Main Street To Broadway" in which he plays himself.

I repeat again, I never had a feud with Tallulah. She asked me if I cared what she wrote in her book and I said, "No, I was flattered."

"I'm glad," she said, "because I couldn't make it sound too dull. Lots of people are upset because I didn't even mention them" — but she wouldn't tell of whom she was speaking.

John Wayne and Jane Powell have been voted the most popular stars of 1952 in the Modern Screen poll, based on a survey of its many readers.

Lana Turner and Alan Ladd are named the ten year popularity champions. Marge and Gower Champion 1952's newest co-starring discoveries, and Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, Hollywood's all champion comedy team.

Others who will be given awards by publisher George T. Delacorte at a cocktail party Wednesday at the Beverly Hills Hotel are the ten most promising young players and the ten top poll winners of the year.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: are Kay Williams Spreckels and Bentley Ryan a romance item? Looks that way.

Paul Douglas and Jan Sterling, who did a great job entertaining our service men in Korea at Christmas time last year, will do a repeat performance this year.

Joe Di Maggio's ex, Dorothy Arnold, is having Tom Kelly do some glamor photographs of her. He photographed the famous Marilyn Monroe calendar.

The John Ringling North-Gloria Drew romance which went on for four years, is ended now. He's in Italy, she's in Paris, and she's refusing telephone calls.

Betty Dodero, ex-wife of Alan Curtis, and Hugh Shannon have set the date for their marriage in late November. The place Madrid.

Nicky Hilton hasn't had a drink in a long time and he says he never intends to take another. He looked wonderful at the Mocambo with Mary Murphy, Paramount starlet, and he was drinking only soft drinks.

A cable from Malta says that Michael Rennie and Jeffrey Hunter, on location for 20th had cocktails with the King and Queen of Sweden, Princess Alice of Greece, mother of the Duke of Edinburgh, and Lord and Lady Mountbatten. They were guests at the Malta governor's palace and attended a colorful ceremony.

The Duncan Sisters were presented with honorary memberships in the studio club at the meeting of the Hollywood Studio Club Alumnae Association.

Ruth Roman's baby is due any day now.

John Meade, up and coming doctor, and Lina Romay are just friends and have no matrimonial plans. Both deny they are other than just good friends.

At the Bantam Cook Marie Windsor and Alex Runciman taking up where they left off eight months ago when they said goodbye forever.

Sam Goldwyn flew to San Francisco to catch Danny Kaye's act, which will be repeated later on tour. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is LONG FELLOW
AXYDLBAAXR

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Traumatic Soap Opera

Hospital drama always tickles me in the wrong places. There is always—at least when I'm around—the contest raging in the doctor's soul between taking Park Avenue money or continuing pure research on the poor. The rich presumably never get any interesting ailments.

Just as he's about to give the nod to Park Avenue, the intercom explodes: "Dr. Barnes! Dr. Barnes! Wanted in 312." Somebody's liver has ruptured or something. That restores the doctor to science and pure living. The operating rooms, the waiting rooms with their pulsing illnesses have been exploited for years in soap opera. A soap opera doesn't have to take place in a hospital but an awful lot of them do, soap opera heroes being extraordinary prone to accidents.

Sooner or later, this fertile ground was bound to fall under the eye of the television people and it has on a program called "City Hospital" which you'll find on CBS-TV (9 p. m. EST alternate Tuesdays). The trend in hospital drama now, kiddies, is away from bodily ailments and toward the more mental ones. Time was, as any of us oldsters can tell you, when old Dr. Barnes worked frantically away with his scalpels to save young Nora who suffers from delusions of having been run over by a truck. Now, young Nora suffers from delusions of having been run over by a truck though there hasn't been a truck in the vicinity for years.

Hospital drama like so much other drama has gone neurotic. People don't break their legs any more. Their legs hurt because their elder brothers once kicked them in the shins when they were six years old (sibling rivalry). Thus, the groundwork was laid—a little groundwork music, maestro—for the medical whodunit who has become almost as predictable as the other kind.

"City Hospital" is very definitely of the neurotic school of hospital drama. The illnesses are largely psychological and, while medically they may be reasonably sound, dramatically they make me nervous. One of the early "City Hospital" dramas revolved around a stop me if you've heard this—a young husband who uses mental cruelty to destroy his wife's health to get his hands on her fortune. (This particular play was magnificently satirized a couple weeks ago by Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar who dwelt especially heavily on the new trick of ramming a camera practically into an actor's eye or up his ear.

A more recent one was a young doctor who was breaking up psychologically over some trauma or other and wouldn't let a psychiatrist lay a couch under him. It was full of such dialogue as: "I don't want you swarming all over me! Stop it! Stop it! Stop it! I can't stand this probing!" Developed he'd harbored for years a feeling of guilt because he'd got the medical education and there hadn't been enough money left to send his older brother through medical school. Well, sir, the thing cleared up in a trice when the man found out his older brother didn't want to be a doctor. Couldn't stand the sight of blood.

Come to think of it, most of these TV doctors probably can't stand the sight of blood either because they've never seen any. If you came in with blood pouring out your ears, they'd surmise your mother had boxed them when you were eight years old and they just got around to bleeding. (Oedipus complex, tertiary). Central character of "City Hospital" is Dr. Barton Crane, played by Melville Ruck. Now there is a quality not only in doctors but in actors who play doctors (with what seems like more relish than they play the rest of us) of extreme unctuousness.

In neurotic hospital drama, this sort of thing gets worse. Dr. Crane is given to staring off into space and intoning: "Yes, guilt can do strange things to people." Or: "It's fairly obvious your husband doesn't want to get well. He's punishing himself for some secret guilt." Many of the people in "City Hospital" are covered with guilt like scales. Even the common cold is a symptom of some deep-seated emotional distress. Whatever happened to the old-fashioned germ, anyway?

Traumatic Soap Opera

Hospital drama always tickles me in the wrong places. There is always—at least when I'm around—the contest raging in the doctor's soul between taking all that easy Park Avenue money or continuing pure research on the poor. The rich presumably never get any interesting ailments.

Just as he's about to give the nod to Park Avenue, the intercom explodes: "Dr. Barnes! Dr. Barnes! Wanted in 212." Somebody's liver has ruptured or something. That restores the doctor to science and pure living. The operating rooms, the waiting rooms with their pulsing illnesses have been exploited for years in soap opera. A soap opera doesn't have to take place in a hospital but an awful lot of them do, soap opera heroes being extraordinarily prone to accidents.

Sooner or later, this fertile ground was bound to fall under the eye of the television people and it has on a program called "City Hospital" which you'll find on CBS-TV (9 p.m. EST alternate Tuesdays). The trend in hospital drama now, kiddies, is away from bodily ailments and toward the more mental ones. Time was, as any of us oldsters can tell you, when old Dr. Barnes worked frantically away with his scalpel to save young Nora from the consequences of having been run over by a truck. Now, young Nora suffers from delusions of having been run over by a truck though there hasn't been a truck in the vicinity for years.

Hospital drama like so much other drama has gone neurotic. People don't break their legs any more. Their legs hurt because their elder brothers once kicked them in the shins when they were six years old (sibling rivalry). Thus the groundwork was laid—a little groundwork music, maestro—for the medical whodunit who has become almost as predictable as the other kind.

"City Hospital" is very definitely of the neurotic school of hospital drama. The illnesses are largely psychological and, while medically they may be reasonably sound, dramatically they make me nervous. One of the early "City Hospital" dramas revolved around a stop me if you've heard this—a young husband who uses mental cruelty to destroy his wife's health to get his hands on her fortune. (This particular play was magnificently satirized a couple weeks ago by Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar who dwell especially heavily on the new trick of ramming a camera practically into an actor's eye or up his ear.

A more recent one was a young doctor who was breaking up psychologically over some trauma or other and wouldn't let a psychiatrist lay a couch under him. It was full of such dialogue as: "I don't want you swarming all over me! Stop it! Stop it! Stop it! I can't stand this probing!" Developed he'd harbored for years a feeling of guilt because he'd got the medical education and there hadn't been enough money left to send his older brother through medical school. Well, sir, the thing cleared up in a trice when the man found out his older brother didn't want to be a doctor. Couldn't stand the sight of blood.

Come to think of it, most of these TV doctors probably can't stand the sight of blood either because they've never seen any. If you came in with blood pouring out your ears, they'd surmise your mother had boxed them when you were eight years old and they just got around to bleeding. (Oedipus complex, tertiary). Central character of "City Hospital" is Dr. Barton Crane, played by Melville Ruick. Now there is a quality not only in doctors but in actors who play doctors (with what seems like more relish than they play the rest of us) of extreme unctuousness.

In neurotic hospital drama, this sort of thing gets worse. Dr. Crane is given to staring off into space and intoning: "Yes, guilt can do strange things to people." Or: "It's fairly obvious your husband doesn't want to get well. He's punishing himself for some secret guilt." Many of the people in "City Hospital" are covered with guilt like scales. Even the common cold is a symptom of some deep-seated emotional distress. Whatever happened to the old-fashioned germ, anyway?

Schary Presents Movie Capital's Plan Of Action

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—The motion picture industry has been accused of everything from Bolshevism to bankruptcy in the past year. Everyone, from politician to panhandler, has pointed an accusing finger at Hollywood.

What will be said about the industry and who will say it in the next 12 months is hard to guess.

However, here is the film capital's plan of action. It is presented by Dore Schary, in charge of production at one of the largest studios. The views he expressed in his exclusive interview with us should also include the thoughts of other major movie makers.

Question: Will 1952 be the last big year for films?

Answer: Not as much money will be spent in the coming year. Production and budgets will be better organized so that the quality of the product will be better at a lower cost to the studio.

Q: Will you continue to make big, expensive films?

A: If a picture rates $3 million, we will spend it. However, we will continue to search for methods by which to make it for less.

Q: Will the star system continue?

A: It will not change. We will continue to maintain a large roster of players at this studio.

We hope that in our list of newcomers, such as the Champagnes, Pier Angeli, Peggy King, Fernando Lamas, etc., top stars will emerge. Remember, though, it's not easy to find Gables and Taylors every day.

Q: Will actors be asked to take salary cuts as have the executives at your studio?

A: No. If the players are good, they will continue to get what they deserve. The only cuts we will make is in time required for production. Time is money.

Q: Is the Communism question settled in the film industry?

A: I do not believe there are any Communists presently working in the motion picture industry. If there are, they are not only fooling the motion picture industry, but the FBI and the House un-American activities committee.

Q: With the ever-increasing number of films being made in color, will black-and-white soon be dead?

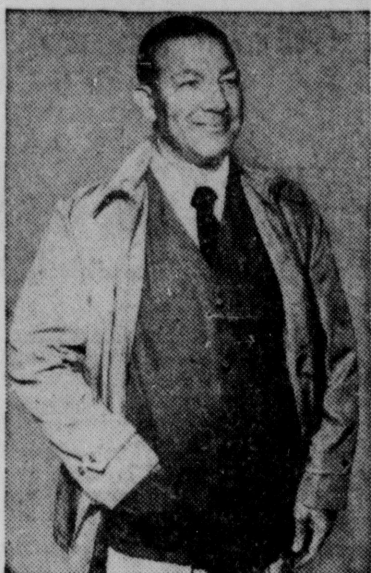

A: No. The majority of future productions will be made in color, however straight dramatic films will continue to be filmed in black-and-white. Even big films—a perfect example is our Julius Caesar—will be made without benefit of color.

Q: Are there plans for different presentation of films, such as three-dimensional screens and gimmick photography?

A: None at all. We'll let any

STAG LINES for men

Triple-Threat Coat

FASHION: In the variable winds of the football season you can stay comfortable in the practical new "Triple Threat" jacket. It has two layers—a windproof outer coat and a zip-in sweater-like lining. You can wear either layer separately, or, like restaurateur Bob Olin (left), former light heavyweight boxing champ, keep warm in both.

Handyman: Are your bathroom scales accurate? You can check them the next time your household buys a bag of flour. . . . If you own a good set of tools, keep a piece of charcoal in the chest to absorb moisture and prevent rusting. . . . Try to store your window screens flat, one on top of the other, instead of standing them on end. It avoids warping.

Olin ready for fall winds

Ten-Second Interview: Banker—"Fewer business men would lose their shirts—if they rolled up their sleeves!" . . . Bartender—"An optimist is a guy who says his glass is half full. A pessimist says it's half empty!"

Paris Letter: "Hatmaker Gelot," on Place Vendome, has bowed to the Texas influence and is making ten-gallon hats. Wearers are called "Vendome Cowboys!" . . . French haberdashers staggered on the ultra-conservative taste of Clark Gable. Not so by Bob Hope, who bought a fire-engine-red sport jacket.

Factuals: In Connie Ryan's new book, "Across the Space Frontier," there's an illustration of the space suit of the future. It's not very stylish—but it's practical! . . . Science says that we burn more calories, and use more energy, during our first hour of sleep than when we're awake. . . . Statements that auto accidents are on the increase are misleading. There are more accidents, but there are many more drivers—and the rate per driver is lower than it was before the war.

Gadgets: One of the handiest new devices for the home is the "Bernz-O-Matic" liquefied petroleum blow torch. Good for soldering, burning off paint, etc. . . . A transparent liquid coating called "Corogard" protects the chrome finish on cars for a full six months.

Closet Cure: If your closet is too narrow to accommodate the width of hangers, here's how you can hang your clothes there anyway. Cut shallow notches at an angle in the crossbar, so the hangers will stay in a diagonal position (see drawing at right). Your clothes will stay neat and unmussed.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Chuck Davey, who holds a Master of Arts degree from Michigan State, for his ring department and sportsmanship—as well as his boxing ability. The fight game needs more like him.

Q: Will your studio enter the field of film production for TV viewing?

A: No. We are, however, making trailers to advertise our films on television. These will be cartoon-type trailers and our players will not be shown "live" or on film via TV.

Q: Will you make available to TV, the hundreds of films which now repose in the studio's vaults.

A: It is not planned now. Perhaps when such a move makes financial sense we will do it. At present we

Schary Presents Movie Capital's Plan Of Action

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—The motion picture industry has been accused of everything from Bolshevism to bankruptcy in the past year. Every one, from politician to panhandler, has pointed an accusing finger at Hollywood.

What will be said about the industry and who will say it in the next 12 months is hard to guess.

However, here is the film capital's plan of action. It is presented by Dore Schary, in charge of production at one of the largest studios. The views he expressed in his exclusive interview with us should also include the thoughts of other major movie makers.

Question: Will 1952 be the last big year for films?

Answer: Not as much money will be spent in the coming year. Production and budgets will be better organized so that the quality of the product will be better at a lower cost to the studio.

Q: Will you continue to make big, expensive films?

A: If a picture rates $3 million, we will spend it. However, we will continue to search for methods by which to make it for less.

Q: Will the star system continue?

A: It will not change. We will continue to maintain a large roster of players at this studio. We hope that in our list of newcomers, such as the Champions, Pier Angeli, Peggy King, Fernando Lamas, etc., new stars will emerge. Remember, though, it's not easy to find Gables and Taylors every day.

Q: Will actors be asked to take salary cuts as have the executives at your studio?

A: No. If the players are good, they will continue to get what they deserve. The only cuts we will make is in time required for production. Time is money.

Q: Is the Communism question settled in the film industry?

A: I do not believe there are any Communists presently working in the motion picture industry. If there are, they are not only fooling the motion picture industry, but the FBI and the House un-American activities committee.

Q: With the ever-increasing number of films being made in color, will black-and-white soon be dead?

A: No. The majority of future productions will be made in color, however straight dramatic films will continue to be filmed in black-and-white. Even big films—a perfect example is our Julius Caesar—will be made without benefit of color.

Q: Are there plans for different presentation of films, such as three-dimensional screens and gimmick photography?

A: None at all. We'll let any

STAG LINES for men

by Bert Bacharach

Triple-Threat Coat

FASHION: In the variable winds of the football season you can stay comfortable in the practical new "Triple Threat" jacket. It has two layers—a windproof outer coat and a zip-in sweater-like lining. You can wear either layer separately, or, like Restaurant Bob Olin (left), former light heavyweight boxing champ, keep warm in both.

Handyman: Are your bathroom scales accurate? You can check them the next time your household buys a bag of flour. . . If you own a good set of tools, keep a piece of charcoal in the chest to absorb moisture and prevent rusting. . . Try to store your window screens flat, one on top of the other, instead of standing them on end. It avoids warping.

Olin ready for fall winds

Ten-Second Interview: Banker—"Fewer business men would lose their shirts—if they rolled up their sleeves!" . . . Bartender—"An optimist is a guy who says his glass is half full. A pessimist says it's half empty!"

Paris Letter: "Hatmaker Gelot," on Place Vendôme, has bowed to the Texas influence and is making ten-gallon hats. Wearers are called "Vendôme Cowboys!" . . . French haberdashers staggered by the ultra-conservative taste of Clark Gable. Not so by Bob Hope, who bought a fire-engine-red sport jacket.

Factuals: In Connie Ryan's new book, "Across the Space Frontier," there's an illustration of the space suit of the future. It's not very stylish—but it's practical! . . . Science says that we burn more calories, and use more energy, during our first hour of sleep than when we're awake. . . Statements that auto accidents are on the increase are misleading. There are more accidents, but there are many more drivers—and the rate per driver is lower than it was before the war.

Gadgets: One of the handiest new devices for the home is the "Bernz-O-Matic" liquefied petroleum blow torch. Good for soldering, burning off paint, etc. . . A transparent liquid coating called "Corogard" protects the chrome finish on cars for a full six months.

Closet Cure: If your closet is too narrow to accommodate the width of hangers, here's how you can hang your clothes there anyway. Cut shallow notches at an angle in the crossbar, so the hangers will stay in a diagonal position (see drawing at right). Your clothes will stay neat and unmussed.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Chuck Davey, who holds a Master of Arts degree from Michigan State, for his ring deportment and sportsmanship—as well as his boxing ability. The fight game needs more like him.

others experiment who wish to.

Q: Will your studio enter the field of film production for TV viewing?

A: No. We are, however, making trailers to advertise our films on television. These will be cartoon-type trailers and our players will not be shown "live" or on film via TV.

Q: Will you make available to TV, the hundreds of films which now repose in the studio's vaults.

A: It is not planned now. Perhaps when such a move makes financial sense we will do it. At present we can make much more by simple reissues at theaters.

Q: What is Hollywood's best defense against TV?

A: It's simple—just make good movies. At present there is no indication to show that a good movie will not make money. Don't forget there is still a potential of a $15 million profit for every film made. So, I guess the movie business is still pretty good in the good old United States.

Step up to the firing line, kiddies, as usual, Hollywood's your best target.

AHS Hosts Martinsburg Friday; Geatz Wins MVP Award

Bulldogs Seek 2nd Win Over Local Eleven

Fort Hill To Visit Hagerstown; Campers, Sentinels Bag Wins

Martinsburg High School's Bulldogs, holders of a 21-20 decision over Fort Hill, and a 14-14 tie with undefeated Hagerstown, come to town Friday night to test Allegheny High School's Campers in what may prove to be one of the best games of the local scholastic gridiron campaign.

While this game is on, Bill Hahn's Fort Hill Sentinels will be facing Mel Henry's Hagerstown High eleven in another important test in the Hub City. Hagerstown defeated Allegheny High School by the score of 7-0 seven weeks ago and would like to include Fort Hill among its victims.

LaSalle Idle This Week
LaSalle's Explorers will be idle this weekend but will be busy pointing for the important engagement with Allegheny the following week.

The Martinsburg-Allegheny game is the 27th of their series. Allegheny holds a 15-9 edge in victories and two games ended in ties. The last time the Bulldogs won was in 1947. The score was 20-0. Last year the teams fought to a 12-12 deadlock.

Hagerstown and Fort Hill will be tangling for the 17th time on Friday night. The Sentinels lead with 13 wins and two defeats. One contest ended in a deadlock. Hahn's teams have bagged the last five games from the Hubs who last won in 1946 by the score of 20-13.

Allegheny Tops Blazers

Coach Roy Lester's AHS eleven turned in its fourth triumph of the season Saturday afternoon by whipping Montgomery Blair High School's Blazers at Silver Spring, Md., by the score of 20-19. Charles "Chuck" Ehrlich scored the three Allegheny touchdowns and Dick Rank's conversion after the third six-pointer in the final period was the margin of victory. Ralph Ward scored twice for the Blazers and Earl Ball accounted for the other two. The Campers had ten first downs to three for M-B. Lester's outfit piled up 230 net yards rushing to the opposition's 106 and also had an edge in yards gained passing, 67-58.

Fort Hill made it 5-1 for the season by downing the previously unbeaten Handley High Judges of Winchester, Va., 19 to 6, before 4,500 persons in a Saturday night game here.

McVicker Paces Sentinels

John McVicker, Sentinels' halfback, scored twice for the Scarlet and White, the first time on a one-yard plunge and the second on a 70-yard gallop after intercepting a pass. Jimmy Farris made the other Fort Hill six-pointer and booted the only point from placement. Robertson scored Winchester's touchdown.

The first downs were 10-9 in favor of Fort Hill. Winchester completed 6 of 14 passes for 45 yards while Fort Hill drew a blank in seven tries. The victors piled up 209 net yards on the ground to 114 for the visitors.

Terps Compared With Last Year's Fabulous Outfit

Alderton Mentioned For Lineman-Of-Week

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19. (AP)—This may be hard for Missouri and Auburn fans to swallow, but in these parts they're comparing this mid-season Maryland football club with the fabulous 1951 team. Even the most loyal Maryland supporter would have laughed at the comparison three weeks ago, after the Terrapins had just squeaked past Missouri and Auburn with fourth-quarter touchdown passes.

But yesterday's 38-7 swamping of a tough Navy crew, coupled with the shutout pating of Clemson and Georgia the previous two Saturdays, has convinced observers that Coach Jim Tatum has put together a team at least as good as the one which was undefeated last season and whipped Tennessee, top-ranked in the nation, in the Sugar Bowl.

44,700 Witness Rout
Watching the Terrapins top with Navy, the 44,700 jammed into Byrd Stadium could hardly believe this was the same Midshipman unit which had fashioned the second best defensive record in the country.

In its first two touchdown drives alone Maryland gained 128 yards. Navy had allowed three respectable, previous opponents an average of only 121 yards in 60 minutes. All told, Maryland ran up a net yardage of 439, almost half by rushing. As he did in the 28-0 and 27-0 conquests of Clemson and Georgia, Tatum withdrew his first-string offensive backfield from the Navy game before the third quarter was halfway gone.

Quarterback Jack Scarbath, the fancy faker and dead-eye passer who puts the magic into Maryland's split-T offense, had a relatively simple time solving the heralded Navy defense.

In the first period the sparkling All-America candidate threw touchdown aerials of 52 and 23 yards against a Middle defensive alignment later characterized by Tatum as "surprising and inviting." At times the Midshipmen, over-conscious of Maryland's success with wide running plays, used eight and nine defenders in the line or a half-step behind.

Fullerton Gains 107 Yards
Ed Fullerton, gaining 107 yards in 16 carries despite an injured leg, was reason enough for the Midshipmen to keep a tight defense. But when Navy concentrated on stopping him there was always the pin-point passing attack to fall back on.

One of the most startling examples of this slicked-up Maryland offense came early in the second half, when End Lloyd Colter took the ball on what looked at first like an end-around, then faded and passed 22 yards to his opposite number, Loui Wiedensaul, in the end zone.

Defensively, the Terrapins repeatedly smothered a Navy attack which had accounted for 76 points against Yale, Cornell and William and Mary. Coach Eddie Erdelatz's outclassed eleven failed to advance beyond midfield during the entire first half.

Tatum Praises Alderton
End John Alderton, bidding strongly for lineman-of-the-week honors, twice dumped Navy runners for losses of seven yards each. He also blocked a punt to set up a Maryland touchdown and was the biggest single factor in holding the opposition at net three yards gained by rushing in the first 30 minutes of the one-sided contest.

Tatum credited Alderton with "one of the greatest individual performances I have ever seen."

Giants Handed First Defeat By Chicago Cardinals, 24-23

Matson's Touchdown, Geri's Extra Point Win In 4th Quarter

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—The Chicago Cardinals swept 71 yards and sent Olympic star Ollie Matson storming over for the winning touchdown today as they handed the New York Giants their first defeat in the National Football League, 24-23.

The nip-and-tuck game, mostly an air duel between the Cards' Charley Trippi and the Giants' Charley Conerly, reached a pulsating climax when the Giants roared back and tried for the winning field goal in the final 18 seconds.

Big Ray Poole attempted the kick from the 29-yard line but the ball careened off the uprights, and the Giants were knocked into a three-way tie for the American Division lead of the NFL. The Giants, Cards and Cleveland Browns now have 3-1 records.

Don Pandera set up the winning score with a 35-yard pass to End Cliff Anderson which put the ball on the Giants' four. Three whacks at the Giants' defenses, rated the best in the league, found the Cards back on the six.

But on the next play the ball was given to Matson and the rookie halfback, a 1951 All-America at San Francisco, had the answer. He shot wide to his left and cut over for the touchdown.

Geri's Point Decides
Then Georgia's Joe Geri kicked the vital extra point, the decisive score of the game, just as he had begun the day's point-making with a 32-yard field goal in the first six minutes.

The Cardinals victory nullified a brilliant passing exhibition by the Giants' Conerly, who rifled touchdown passes in each of the first three quarters.

Trippi, a six-year NFL veteran, engineered the Cardinals' two touchdown bursts in the second period.

The first came on a spectacular maneuver covering 56 yards. Trippi shot a long pass to Halfback Bill Cross, waiting on the Giants' 20. Cross plucked the ball from the hands of three Giants—Emilen Tunnell, Harmon Rowe and Tom Landry—and then squirmed from their grasps to run for a touchdown.

Twelve minutes later, the Cards seized a Giants' fumble on New York's 28-yard line and after two line plays, Trippi shot a 14-yard pass to End Don Stonesifer, who was downed on the one. Trippi went over on a sneak.

Giants Get Safety
The Giants gained a safety in the last period when a kick pushed the Cards to their five-yard line and Trippi was smeared behind the goal line by Arnie Weinmeister and Ray Poole. Score by periods: NEW YORK..... 7 7 7 7-23 CHICAGO CARDS..... 14 0 7 7-24

New York scoring: Touchdowns—McChesney, 2. Rote, Conversions—Poole, 2. Conerly, Safety—Trippi tackled by Weinmeister and Poole.

Chicago Cards scoring: Touchdowns—Cross, Trippi, Matson, Conversions—Geri, 3. Field Goals—Geri.

West Virginia Tops Generals Before 4,500

Abrams Stars As Team Takes 31-13 Beating

A 95-yard downfield march and a spectacular punt blocked by sophomore guard John Zelek provided West Virginia University with the spark to roll over Washington and Lee's Generals in Cumberland's Industrial Bowl football game Saturday at Fort Hill Stadium before a disappointing crowd of 4,500 persons. The score was 31-13.

With the score 13-6 in favor of West Virginia and play about even up to midway in the second quarter, Zelek rushed in to block Randy Broyles' punt and allowed Center Paul Stunt to down it on the W. & L. 2-yard line. Fred Wyant went over two plays later.

Coach Art Lewis' Mountaineers took advantage of the breaks and used superior line play to get across five touchdowns. Wyant scored twice, and Sweeney, Williams and Marconi once each. Washington and Lee's passing game fell apart and the visitors scored via the air once. That was in the fourth period when Joe Lindsey passed to Bob Thomas. Abrams Runs 51 Yards

Wes Abrams, former Allegheny High ace, thrilled the home fans in the opening quarter when he took Joe Lindsey's pitchout and raced 51 yards for the Generals' first touchdown. Abrams was also the game's leading ground gainer with 77 yards in eight trips for a 9.8 average.

West Virginia's 95-yard drive came in the first quarter after a pass interception. Highlighting the drive was a 53-yard pass from Wyant to Fullback Bill Scott and was culminated when Wyant went over from the one.

Lafferty of W. & L. and Stone of WVU made the only conversions after touchdowns.

The Morgantown eleven reeled off 16 first downs to the losers' 13. West Virginia gained a total of 325 yards—222 rushing and 103, passing—while the Generals made 169 on the ground and 80 via the air lanes. The Mountaineers were set back 94 yards on penalties to 31 for the Lexington eleven.

Eddie Landis, former Fort Hill star, played about half the game in a linebacking role for the Generals and Rollin McCreary, ex-Rome High back, saw action at right guard for the winners.

Bakers Take Beating
Local businessmen who are reported to have underwritten the game for $25,000 took a financial beating on the venture. Pre-game attendance estimates hit as high as 10,000 but the paid attendance at $3.65 a ticket plummeted to around 4,500. The loss will run between $10,000 and $12,000.

Graham Tosses Four TD Passes As Browns Win

Wallop Eagles, 49-7; Groza Hangs Up NFL Conversion Record

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19. (AP)—Otto Graham had a field day as he pitched four touchdown passes to lead the Cleveland Browns to a 49 to 7 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles before 27,874 fans at Shibe Park today. It was the worst Eagles defeat since 1933.

The easy victory earned Cleveland a three way tie for first place with the New York Giants and the Chicago Cardinals in the American Conference of the National Football League. The Giants lost 24 to 23 to the Cardinals today.

The Cleveland story against the Eagles was all Graham, the irrepressible T-formation quarterback of the smooth-functioning Browns. Otto gained 299 yards during his three quarters of action on 18 completions in 30 pass attempts. He threw TD passes to Rookie Darrell Brewster, Sherman Howard, Mac Speedie and Bill "Dub" Jones. Otto's Cleveland scores were by Len Ford, who recovered an Eagle pitchout in the end zone; Jones on a 16-yard run, and an 11-yard pass from George Ratterman to Horace Gillion.

Lou Groza, the great field goal and extra point specialist, established a new NFL conversion record by booting seven in a row today. The former Ohio State luminary now has 86 successful consecutive conversions over the last three years to erase the mark of 84 set by Philadelphia's Cliff Patton from 1947 through 1949. Martinsburg High School's Bulldogs, holders of a 21-0 decision over Fort Hill, and a 14-1 tie with undefeated Hagerstown, come to town Friday night to test Allegheny High School's Campers in what may prove to be one of the best games of the local scholastic gridiron campaign.

While this game is on, Bill Hahn's Fort Hill Sentinels will be facing Mel Henry's Hagerstown High eleven in another important test in the Hub City. Hagerstown defeated Allegheny High School by the score of 7-0 seven weeks ago and would like to include Fort Hill among its victims.

LaSalle Idle This Week
LaSalle's Explorers will be idle this weekend but will be busy pointing for the important engagement with Allegheny the following week.

The Martinsburg-Allegheny game is the 27th of their series. Allegheny holds a 15-9 edge in victories and two games ended in ties. The last time the Bulldogs won was in 1947. The score was 20-0. Last year the teams fought to a 12-12 deadlock.

Hagerstown and Fort Hill will be tangling for the 17th time on Friday night. The Sentinels lead with 13 wins and two defeats. One contest ended in a deadlock. Hahn's teams have bagged the last five games from the Hubs who last won in 1946 by the score of 20-13.

Charles "Chuck" Elrich scored the three Allegheny touchdowns and Dick Rank's conversion after the third six-pointer in the final period was the margin of victory. Ralph Ward scored twice for the Blazers and Earl Ball accounted for the other two. The Campers had ten first downs to three for M-B. Lester's outfit piled up 230 net yards rushing to the opposition's 106 and also had an edge in yards gained passing, 67-58.

Port Hill made it 5-1 for the season by downing the previously unbeaten Handley High Judges of Winchester, Va., 19 to 6, before 4,500 persons in a Saturday night game here.

Watching the Terrapins toy with Navy, the 44,700 jammed into Byrd Stadium could hardly believe this was the same Midshipman unit which had fashioned the second best defensive record in the country.

In its first two touchdown drives alone Maryland gained 128 yards. Navy had allowed three respectable, previous opponents an average of only 121 yards in 60 minutes. All told, Maryland ran up a net yardage of 439, almost half by rushing.

As he did in the 26-0 and 37-0 conquests of Clemson and Georgia, Tatum withdrew his first-string offensive backfield from the Navy game before the third quarter was halfway gone.

Quarterback Jack Scarbath, the fancy fader and dead-eye passer who puts the magic into Maryland's split-T offense, had a relatively simple time solving the heralded Navy defense.

In the first period the sparkling All-America candidate threw touchdown aerials of 52 and 23 yards against a Middle defensive alignment later characterized by Tatum as "surprising and inviting." At times the Midshipmen, over-conscious of Maryland's success with wide running plays, used eight and nine defenders in the line or a half-step behind.

Fullerton Gains 107 Yards
Ed Fullerton, gaining 107 yards in 16 carries despite an injured leg, was reason enough for the Midshipmen to keep a tight defense. But when Navy concentrated on stopping him there was always the pin-point passing attack to fall back on.

One of the most startling examples of this slicked-up Maryland offense came early in the second half, when End Lloyd Colterah took the ball on what looked at first like an end-around, then faded and passed 22 yards to his opposite number, Lou Wiedensaul, in the end zone.

Defensively, the Terrapins repeatedly smothered a Navy attack which had accounted for 76 points against Yale, Cornell and William and Mary. Coach Eddie Erdelatz's outclassed eleven failed to advance beyond midfield during the entire first half.

Tatum Praises Alderton
End John Alderton, bidding strongly for lineman-of-the-week honors, twice dumped Navy runners for losses of seven yards each.

He also blocked a punt to set up a Maryland touchdown and was the biggest single factor in holding the opposition at net three yards gained by rushing in the first 30 minutes of the one-sided contest.

Tatum credited Alderton with "one of the greatest individual performances I have ever seen."

Giants Handed First Defeat By Chicago Cardinals, 24-23

Matson's Touchdown, Geri's Extra Point Win In 4th Quarter

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—The Chicago Cardinals swept 71 yards and sent Olympic star Ollie Matson storming over for the winning touchdown today as they handed the New York Giants their first defeat in the National Football League, 24-23.

The hip-and-tuck game, mostly an air duel between the Cards' Charley Trippi and the Giants' Charley Conerly, reached a pulsating climax when the Giants roared back and tried for the winning field goal in the final 18 seconds.

Big Ray Poole attempted the kick from the 29-yard line but the ball careened off the uprights, and the Giants were knocked into a three-way tie for the American Division lead of the NFL. The Giants, Cards and Cleveland Browns now have 3-1 records.

Don Pandera set up the winning score with a 35-yard pass to End Cliff Anderson which put the ball on the Giants' four. Three whacks at the Giants' defenses, rated the best in the league, found the Cards back on the six.

But on the next play the ball was given to Matson and the rookie halfback, a 1951 All-America at San Francisco, had the answer. He shot wide to his left and cut over for the touchdown.

Geri's Point Decides
Then Georgia's Joe Geri kicked the vital extra point, the decisive score of the game, just as he had begun the day's point-making with a 32-yard field goal in the first six minutes.

The Cardinals victory nullified a brilliant passing exhibition by the Giants' Conerly, who rifled touchdowns passes in each of the first three quarters.

Trippi, a six-year NFL veteran, engineered the Cardinals' two touchdown bursts in the second period.

The first came on a spectacular maneuver covering 56 yards. Trippi shot a long pass to Halfback Bill Cross, waiting on the Giants' 20. Cross plucked the ball from the hands of three Giants—Emmen Tunnell, Harmon Rowe and Tom Landry—and then squirmed from their grasp to run for a touchdown.

Twelve minutes later, the Cards seized a Giants' fumble on New York's 28-yard line and after two line plays, Trippi shot a 14-yard pass to End Don Stonestree, who was downed on the one. Trippi went over on a sneak.

Giants Get Safety
The Giants gained a safety in the last period when a kick pushed the Cards to their five-yard line and Trippi was smeared behind.

West Virginia Tops Generals Before 4,500

Abrams Stars As Team Takes 31-13 Beating

A 95-yard downfield march and a spectacular punt blocked by sophomore guard John Zelek provided West Virginia University with the spark to roll over Washington and Lee's Generals in Cumberland's Industrial Bowl football game Saturday at Fort Hill Stadium before a disappointing crowd of 4,500 persons. The score was 31-13.

With the score 13-6 in favor of West Virginia and play about even up to midway in the second quarter, Zelek rushed in to block Randy Broyles' punt and allowed Center Paul Starr to down it on the W. L. 2-yard line. Fred Wyant went over two plays later.

Coach Art Lewis' Mountaineers took advantage of the breaks and used superior line play to get across five touchdowns. Wyant scored twice, and Sweeney, Williams and Marconi once each. Washington and Lee's passing game fell apart and the visitors scored via the air once. That was in the fourth period when Joe Lindsey passed to Bob Thomas. Abrams Runs 51 Yards

Wes Abrams, former Allegheny High ace, thrilled the home fans in the opening quarter when he took Joe Lindsey's pitchout and raced 51 yards for the Generals' first touchdown. Abrams was also the game's leading ground gainer with 77 yards in eight trips for a 9.5 average.

West Virginia's 95-yard drive came in the first quarter after a pass interception. Highlighting the drive was a 53-yard pass from Wyant to Fullback Bill Scott and was culminated when Wyant went over from the one.

Lafferty of W. & L. and Stone of WVU made the only conversions after touchdowns.

The Mountaineers eleven reeled off 16 first downs to the losers' 13. West Virginia gained a total of 325 yards—222 rushing and 103, passing—while the Generals made 169 on the ground and 80 via the air lanes.

The Mountaineers were set back 94 yards on penalties to 31 for the Lexington eleven.

Eddie Landis, former Port Hill star, played about half the game in linebacking role for the Generals and Rollin McCreary, ex-Romey High back, saw action at right guard for the winners.

Backers Take Beating
Local businessmen who are reported to have underwritten the game for $25,000 took a financial beating on the venture. Pre-game attendance estimates hit as high as 10,000 but the paid attendance at $3.65 a ticket plummeted to around 4,500. The loss will run between $10,000 and $12,000.

In Memoriam
In memory of Irven G. Wolford who passed away 1 year ago, Oct. 20, 1951. Always so kind, unselfish and kind. Few in this world his equal you'll find. A beautiful life that came to an end. He died as he lived—everyone's friend. Beautiful memories of a smiling face. A broken link no one can replace. Whatever else we fail to do. We'll never fail to think of you. Sadly missed by his Mother, Sisters, Brothers and Children

In memory of Iven G. Wolford who passed away 1 year ago, Oct. 20, 1952. Always so true, unselfish and kind. Few in this world his equal you will find. A beautiful life that came to an end. He died as he lived—everyone's friend. Beautiful memories of a smiling face. A broken link no one can replace. Whatever else we fail to do. We'll never fail to think of you. Sadly missed by his Mother, Sisters, Brothers and Children

Salvation Army Mortgage To Be Burned Tonight

Campaign Workers Will Be Honored

The mortgage on the Salvation Army Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street, will be burned at a special dinner meeting tonight at 6:30 o'clock in Central YMCA.

Wiped out by a capital fund campaign which raised $10,651.38 early this year, the $4,500 mortgage will be burned at the dinner in the presence of Lt. Col. Robert Rose, Atlanta, Ga., Southern Division field secretary.

Also taking part in the ceremony will be Lt. Col. and Mrs. Verner J. Huffman, Baltimore, divisional commanders, and Major and Mrs. Ted Morris, Baltimore, divisional young peoples secretaries.

Will Get Certificates

Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, will preside and Mayor Roy W. Eves, a member of the board, will give the address of welcome.

Col. Huffman will present certificates of appreciation to workers in the capital fund campaigning. An account of the drive will be given by Rev. Seth C. Morrow and Adolf Blunk, co-chairmen for the campaign.

Appreciation will also be given for the $2,085.66 raised in a one-day drive by 33 local churches.

Col. Rose will deliver the principal address during the ceremony.

To Renovate Building

The event will also mark the introduction of Mrs. Winona Stimler, the oldest Salvationist in point of service in Cumberland.

Funds raised in the drive were used to retire the balance of the $20,000 mortgage signed here 31 years ago and to renovate the Salvation Army building in South Cumberland.

The Salvation Army officials who will attend the ceremony arrived here Saturday and officiated at services held yesterday at the Citadel and in South Cumberland.

Parking Area Finances To Be Discussed

Representatives of three local groups interested in the construction of an off-street parking center have been invited to meet with the Mayor and Council this afternoon.

They are Miles G. Thompson, representing the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; Robert Little Ebert and W. Earle Coby, for local merchants who are interested in a similar plan, and James Alfred Avrett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission. The meeting, set for 2 p. m. in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves, was planned last week so city officials could discuss the plan with an official of a Baltimore firm of investment bankers.

Officials pointed out that definite information on finance would be needed in any plans made by the city or by local merchants.

If the parking center is to be a civic project, it must be financed by revenue bonds, as authorized by the 1950 General Assembly.

Since such bonds would be repaid by revenues of the parking center, any plans will have to be approved by the investment firm which is to finance the project, especially if desirable rates of interest are to be secured.

The main purpose of the meeting, officials said, is to learn what can and what cannot be done toward establishing a parking center here.

Although there have been a number of sites under consideration, the principal areas being studied at present are on Bedford Street, between Mechanic and Centre, and on North George Street.

Baltimore Woman Hurt In Highway Accident

A Baltimore woman was admitted yesterday afternoon to Memorial Hospital suffering from injuries sustained in an auto-truck mishap which occurred along Route 42 near Petersburg.

In "fair" condition at the hospital is Mrs. Ethel Eisenbrandt, 51, of 2226 Crest Road. Attached said she suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis, an injury to the right hip and some lacerations. X-rays have been taken.

Alexander S. Eisenbrandt, her husband, operator of the car was traveling south on Route 42, police said, when he crashed into a truck operated by Robert Kline of Maysville, traveling north.

Police said the truck apparently got out of control, careened left across the highway into a bank and the Eisenbrandt car hit the vehicle head-on. The mishap occurred about 3:30 p. m.

Local Reservists To Take Chemical Warfare Course

A Chemical Mobile Instructional and Demonstration Team will visit the local Organized Army Reserve Corps Armory, 301 South Mechanic Street, November 12, according to Major Grant E. Hoover, unit instructor.

Major Hoover explained the team will instruct a two-hour course in recent advances in chemical, biological and radiological warfare.

The course is designed for Reserve members of the Armed Forces and will be discussed under governing security regulations.

According to Major Hoover, the first hour will consist of a discussion of the current status of CBR Warfare, definition of terms, similarities in the three forms of warfare and CBR agents and their effects.

The first hour of the course will also include a film on the atomic bomb.

Demonstrations Scheduled
The second hour will be a combination lecture and demonstration of detection equipment, protective clothing and equipment, first aid and decontamination.

Following the course a question and answer period will be held with officials of the team answering questions of attending reservists.

Major Hoover added that instructional equipment will remain at the Armory for examination by reservists after the formal presentation. Also team members will be available to explain the equipment and answer questions from individuals.

Instructors in the team will be Lt. Col. William F. Lynch and Second Lt. John C. Allen.

Lt. Col. Lynch is a graduate of the University of Rochester and has taken the advanced course at the Chemical Corps School. He was formerly in command of General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, and from 1949 to 1951 was Chemical Corps liaison officer to the U. S. Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory at San Francisco. He is currently assigned to the Second Army Chemical Section as chief of the Training Division.

Course Is Restricted
Lt. Allen is a graduate of Albright College, Reading, Pa., attending as a chemistry and physics major. He was a warrant officer and later was commissioned in the Pennsylvania National Guard. He is now an instructor in the Second Army CBR School.

Major Hoover said the material presented at the two-hour course is for general indoctrination of all type units and is not intended for specific application to Chemical Corps units.

However, since the course falls in the restricted security information classification, it will be limited to members of the armed forces.

Pair Held Here For Passing Of Bogus Checks

$546 Cash Recovered By City Detectives

City police detectives have recovered a total of $546 in cash from 13 bad checks passed in the area over the weekend.

Being held in city jail for further questioning by the States Attorneys office are Ervin Steinmetz, 708 Elm Street, an employee of Coney Island Lunch, and Charles Jackson, city, a former employee of the Coney Island.

Lt. James E. Van, of the city detective bureau, who investigated the case with Roy C. Hawse, said last night the pair had made out the checks as employees of local businessmen and cashed them at various places in Cumberland, Frostburg and Corriganville.

On Saturday morning, Van added, the two men went to Ricker's Meat Market at 173 North Mechanic Street and presented checks for $29, and said they were drivers for a laundry near the Blue Ridge bus station.

Ricker's son became leery of the checks and reported them to city police. Following questioning and identification of pictures in police files, Steinmetz was singled out. Van and Hawse went to his home and asked the whereabouts of his friend.

Later Jackson was picked up and the pair was taken to city jail for questioning. Police said Jackson admitted going to the Commercial Savings Bank and purchasing a check book sometime Friday.

The pair admitted making out the checks in amounts from $24 to $74 and passing them in Cumberland, Frostburg and Corriganville. Cash amounting to $273 was recovered from each of the men, Van said. Some money was spent for gasoline and meals the pair admitted.

Catholic Vets' History Given In Talk Here

A history of the Catholic War Veterans was given yesterday by Vincent Zito, state commander, during a community breakfast at St. Patrick's Social Center when officers of Victor J. Tambolero Post 1712 were installed and the charter presented to the newly organized unit here.

Approximately 60 persons attended the affair which followed 7 a. m. mass at St. Patrick's Church with Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor and chaplain of the organization as celebrant.

During the mass Father Lyness delivered the sermon to the veterans in attendance. Serving as toastmaster at the breakfast was Thomas F. Conlon, welfare officer of the local post.

Father Lyness also addressed the group during the breakfast. Rev. Louis Glantz, OPM, Cap., pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, gave a short talk to the group.

Peter J. Carpentel, post commander-elect, accepted the charter of the organization from Anthony Azzarello, state first vice commander. A feature of the breakfast was the presentation by Commander Carpentel of a life membership in the post to Nicola Tambolero, 49 Prince George Street, father of the war hero for whom the post was named, and the first local World War II casualty. Mr. Tambolero also was presented a scroll by Carpentel.

Pranksters Damaging Mail Boxes Warned

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon yesterday issued a warning against Halloween pranksters who destroy or damage mail boxes, and stressed that such pranks are federal offenses.

The local Post Office has received a number of complaints, especially from rural routes, concerning pre-Halloween fun-makers who tear down mail boxes or cause other damage to postal property.

Conlon urged parents to see that children understand the seriousness of the such acts and quoted that willful or malicious destruction of letter boxes is subject to a fine of not more than $1,000 or of a jail sentence of up to three years.

Postal officials added that each complaint is investigated and violators punished.

Weather

Thus far, Old Sol is ahead with most of the 28 days since the autumnal equinox occurred September 22. Forecasters aren't saying what will happen in the 91-day fight to December 21 when the winter solstice is marked. Old Sol stole another day from Old Man Winter yesterday as clear skies let a cheerful sun spread its warmth over the area. The Weather Bureau, however, favors the latter in today's battle with a prediction of considerable cloudiness, windy and much cooler, getting colder tonight. Experts at Constitution Park weather station scored high temperature yesterday at 64 degrees, and low at 42 with no frost reported. Mercury at 8:30 p. m. was 48 and at 6 p. m. humidity was measured as 44 per cent.

McKeldin Says Beall Will Win Election By Big Margin

Election victories for J. Glenn Beall, candidate for U. S. Senator, and other Republican nominees were predicted at a weekend party rally in Cambridge.

Rep. Carroll D. Kearns of Pennsylvania, who was principal speaker at the Saturday rally, described Democratic Presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson as "an intellectual who will polish the Socialist apple."

Kearns was backed up by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, who predicted that Beall would carry six Western Maryland counties by 30,000 votes in the November 4 election.

Beall and Rep. T. Edward Miller, Republican Eastern Shore Congressman, also spoke briefly.

On the Democratic side, Vice President Alben W. Barkley told a political gathering in Towson Saturday that scandals in his party's administrations have been smaller than those laid to the Republicans under President Warren G. Harding.

The Veep said corruption "isn't a matter of tenure." The Republicans in Harding's time, he said, "were stealing everything but the Capitol dome."

On the other hand, he added, "I don't say that grand larceny under the Republicans deserves petit larceny under Truman. No dishonest man deserves a job in government... but some are bound to creep in."

Dr. Daugherty To Head Professional Group Backing Ike

Dr. Leslie E. Daugherty, 7 Washington Street, has been named Allegany County chairman for the Maryland Professional Committee for Eisenhower and Nixon.

The cards will urge voters to "Look before you leap..."

Dr. Amos R. Koontz is chairman for the committee. Co-chairmen have been named for physicians, dentists, pharmacists and lawyers. Other professional groups are expected to join the campaign, Dr. Koontz said.

Smith Will Address Instrument Society

E. J. Smith, of Dow Corning Corporation, will be guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Cumberland Section of the Instrument Society of America Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in Ali Ghan Country Club.

The members will meet with the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society. Smith's lecture will be, "Silicone, New Engineering Materials." The speaker is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University and received his master's degree in chemistry from the University of Nebraska. For a time he was a research chemist for the Dow Corning Corporation and is now manager of the corporation's Washington office.

Today's Sermonette

Christ loved the church and gave himself up for it. Ephesians 5:25.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Grace Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. W. Randolph Keefe. The sermon digests are being prepared through the co-operation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

By REV. W. R. KEEFE

The Church For Which Christ Gave Himself

Many of us have discovered that in life there are many demands made upon us. Various organizations and institutions and movements will from time to time demand our time and our support.

You and I have to decide which are deserving the support they demand of us. It does not take one long to find out that of all these worth while organizations and institutions and good movements the one that stands out above all others and is most worthy of our support is the church. She is the foundation upon which all good organizations and noble institutions and worth while movements are built. The church is the one institution which gives increase to all that is of value to mankind.

There is in this our day more people upon the earth showing their love for the church than ever before in the history of the world. Calamity howlers who maintain the church in the United States is 'dying' must be quite ignorant of the host of people who love the church and are glad to be numbered among her loyal supporters. Statistics declare the church has grown twice as fast as the United States during the past quarter century.

In the period of one generation, comparative census figures for 1926 and 1950 show a gain in U. S. population of 28.6 per cent.

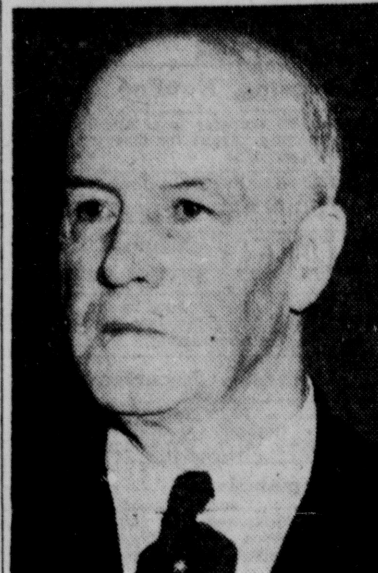

Sixty-seven religious bodies that have more than 50,000 members each and together represent 98 per cent of all members of 256 religious groups in the continental U. S., increased from 53,397,575 to 85,319,274 in the 24 years ending in 1950. This means that religiously-affiliated Americans constitute a majority of the nation's population; representing 57 per cent. This is not only the largest number but the highest percentage in the nation's history.

Many are not as loyal as they should be—in fact none of us. It is encouraging to know that there is a great multitude who delight to show their love and loyalty for the greatest organization God has placed upon the earth. And why shouldn't we show our devotion and appreciation for the church. Christ, the only begotten son of God, our Lord and Saviour, loved the church. As Paul said in writing to the Christians in Ephesus, "Christ loved the church and gave himself up for it."

The sacrifice Christ made for his church has always been to me a source of wonderment. He died for the church before the church had ever come into existence. Christ died in child birth so to speak. This supreme sacrifice he was willing to make for you and me before we were a part of his church. His divine love for us He revealed not after we had shown our love for Him through obedience unto His will and faithful service in His church, but while we were yet in our sins. Christ loved us in spirit of our disobedience and unrighteousness. Before there was a spark of love or any warmth of affection in our cold hearts He loved us—loved us enough to endure the agony of Calvary.

Christ loved us not because we were worthy of His love but while we were farthest from deserving His love. We cannot understand why He loved us so. We love Him because He first loved us and gave Himself for us. Our love we can show by doing our best to make His church the kind of church that Christ would have it to be—The church for which Christ gave himself.

RETIREES—Walter M. Riley, a furnace builder at the Bolt and Forge Shop of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here, retired last Wednesday. A resident of Wiley Ford, W. Va., he began working for the B. and O. August 22, 1906, as a stationary engineer in the power plant at the South Cumberland roundhouse. Riley is a skilled taxidermist and will devote his time to that art in the future.

Grocery Workers Win Wage Boost, Insurance Plan

A wage increase and a health and welfare plan were included in an agreement reached between Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) and four area wholesale grocery firms.

Some 65 employees of the firms will receive 7½ cents an hour wage increases in the pact. In addition, the firms will pay $2 a week for each employee for a health and welfare insurance plan.

Included in the pact are workers of the Piedmont Grocery, C. D. Kenny Division of Consolidated Grocers, Incorporated, branches of the Kennegew Company here and in Meyersdale, Pa., and the Pritchard Corporation.

Charles E. Bramble, president, said the payments on the health and welfare fund are to begin March 1, 1953, when the health plan is inaugurated.

Plans are being made by the local to set up the fund which will be administered jointly by trustees representing the union and the companies.

The church's sanctuary and church school rooms were recently redecorated in preparation for the anniversary observance.

The Baptist Church was a neighbor of Zion Church until last year when it moved to its new building on Greene Street. The new structure, which includes an auditorium and Sunday school building, was completed last year at a cost of about $50,000.

Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, pastor, said special services were held yesterday morning and evening. Last week the membership of the church was visited in hopes of having a high attendance in Sunday school yesterday.

Birthday gifts from members yesterday were applied to the building to pay off the mortgage on the new church.
